President Urges People To Back Tax Cut Demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has urged the people to speak up in support of his tax reduction program. He said its benefits would range from new washing machines for families to new strength around the world for the American dollar and freedom.

"But that bill is in danger of being weakened or deferred," declared Kennedy. "It needs your help, your voice."

Thus through a national radio and television speech, the President sought to light a grassroots fire under Congress on behalf of the $11-billion tax reduction — which he called the most important domestic economic measure in 15 years.

The first major hurdle will come next Wednesday when the House is expected to vote on the tax program. But Kennedy was also looking toward the Senate where the bill faces a stormy time.

7 Negro Aides, JFK To Parley

Meeting Late Today To Eye Birmingham

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy meets today with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and six other Negro leaders to discuss the simmering racial situation in Birmingham, Ala.

On Monday, five of the Negroes called on Kennedy to send federal troops to Birmingham to control "civil disorder."

Long weeks of racial tension in the Alabama steel city reached a climax Sunday when a bomb was tossed into a Negro church, killing four children and injuring 23 others. In later incidents the same day, two Negro youths were killed.

The situation in Birmingham brought a call Wednesday from Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, for the federal government to "cut off every nickel and every dime going into Alabama."

Wilkins told a news conference here that President Kennedy should start by "closing down Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery immediately."

Besides King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the group calling on Kennedy includes Ralph D. Abernathy, King's deputy, and these five leaders of Birmingham's Negro community:

The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, leader of the Alabama Human Rights Movement; A. G. Gaston, businessman whose home and motel were recently bombed; Dr. Lucius Pitts, president of Miles College; Bishop H. I. Murchison; the Rev. J. L. Ware.

REA Test Case Date Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Power Commission hearings in a test case involving South Central Rural Electric Cooperative of Lancaster, Ohio, have been postponed from Oct. 22 to Dec. 10. The Ohio co-op and others in Wisconsin and North Dakota have been directed to show cause why they should not have to comply with certain of the commission's regulations.

At issue is whether the federal agency has jurisdiction over co-operators which transmit or wholesale electricity in interstate commerce. The commission said the postponement resulted from requests to intervene filed by the secretary of agriculture, the Committee on Rural Electric Cooperatives and various co-op groups.

Columbus Day Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has proclaimed Oct. 12 as Columbus Day—the 471st anniversary of the sighting of the new world.

Racial Violence Flares at School In Michigan

Jackson Policemen Are Stoned; 10 Pupils Face Juvenile Court

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—A mob of Negro teen-agers stoned police Wednesday as helmeted officers tried to prevent racial violence at a new $3-million high school in a predominantly white neighborhood.

Later, police fought with several of an estimated 100 to 150 Negro adults who congregated at a residential street corner. No injuries were reported in either incident.

Ten students, including a white girl, were arrested after the hour-long disturbance Wednesday afternoon. Seven white youths were picked up later and released after questioning.

Four policemen were assaulted by a mob of Negro students which also hurled rocks at the patrolmen and at passing cars. Police Chief Roscoe Gray, who said his "show of force didn't work," dispersed about 18 Negro youths at one point with a fire extinguisher.

The president of the Jackson chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Harold White, asked Gov. George Romney to investigate.

School officials reported that classes were resumed peacefully today although the city police guard around the high school had been increased sharply.

Dr. Elven Duvall, Jackson school superintendent, planned to appeal to the students in an assembly for an end to the incidents and tension.

The school is located on the southwest side of Jackson, a Southern Michigan city of 56,000.

After classes ended Wednesday several hundred students—mostly Negroes—gathered in the parking lot. About six Negro and white girls began shoving each other, witnesses said.

Some 200 Negroes began walking away from the lot, some of them throwing rocks at passing cars and at homes. Others shouted, "This isn't Alabama."

Police said the stones were hurled at them when they tried to disperse the mob. None of the officers reported being hit by the rocks.

The nine Negroes and one white student arrested were released to their parents. They were charged with disorderly conduct and ordered to appear in juvenile court.

Parkside High School opened for the first time Sept. 4. Its enrollment of 1,500 students was about evenly divided between whites and Negroes, officials said.

Probes Open Into Fatal Train Crash

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—Mounting investigations and outcries over Tuesday's railroad crossing crash which killed 28 Mexican migrant workers raised a question mark today over the status of the nation's bracero program.

As probes were pushed on both federal and state levels, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez D-Tex., called for defeat of a pending bill which would extend for one year the right to import Mexican laborers or braceros, to do farm work.

"My witnesses are the dead and maimed," he said.

At Boulder, Colo., the migrant committee of the National Council of Churches said the crash, in which a freight train demolished a makeshift bus carrying 62 workers, underscored the need for more protective legislation.

Francisco Espinosa, 34, driver of the bus which was carried a half mile down the track while bodies tumbled on both sides, was in jail on felony manslaughter charges.

Federal and state investigators planned to question him further as to why, after stopping, he started across the tracks near Chualar eight miles south of Salinas, as the three-diesel freight bled down on the crossing.

Macmillan Urges Pay Hike for Civil Servants

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan was urged today to raise the salaries of upper echelon civil servants by 15 to 18 percent to keep the best brains in government.

A committee headed by Lord Franks, former ambassador to the United States, said the increases were necessary to put governmental salaries roughly on a par with industry.

2 County Students To Study at Rome

PAUL M. GOODE

GALEN SCHELB

Two Pickaway County men are to leave Saturday for Rome where they are enrolled at the North American University to complete their seminary training for the Roman Catholic priesthood.

They are Paul M. Goode, son of Mrs. W. J. Goode Sr., Route 4, and the late County Commissioner William J. Goode, and Galen Schelb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Schelb, Route 3.

The seminarians were selected to study in Europe by the Most Rev. Clarence G. Isenman, bishop of the Columbus Diocese, and their superiors at the college-seminary of St. Charles of Borromeo, Columbus.

Both Goode and Schelb were graduated from the minor seminary (St. Charles) in June. They are also 1959 graduates of St. Charles Preparatory High School.

AS aspirants to the priesthood they enrolled at St. Charles after high school graduation. They received basic seminary training there, majoring in classical languages and philosophy.

At the North American University they will receive training primarily in theology. The four years of study in Rome will prepare them for their work as diocesan clergymen.

The local seminarians were selected from a class of 22 at St. Charles for the enrollment at North American University. This selection is considered an honor by the Catholic clergy, since only a few are offered the opportunity.

Goode is the third member of his family to select a religious vocation. A brother, the Rev. Father Raymond A. Goode, was ordained in 1956 and is now teaching at Notre Dame High School at Portsmouth, in addition to his duties with the Catholic Welfare Department. He also has a sister who is a nun in the Order of St. Francis at Joliet, Ill. Her religious name is Sister Mary Alcantara.

Schelb has two sisters. One is a registered nurse who resides at San Diego, Calif. A younger sister, Mitzi, is a student at Ohio University, Athens.

Goode and Schelb were to leave for New York today. They will board the Italian liner, Leonardo da Vinci, on Saturday and are scheduled to arrive at Naples, Italy, on Sept. 29.

Classes will begin for them on Oct. 15 at the university, located at Vatican City State.

Rev. King Sees Good Coming From Evil

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — They did not die in vain," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. before grieving thousands buried three Negro girls killed in a bomb blast during Sunday school.

"God still has a way of bringing good out of evil," he assured the parents Wednesday. "The innocent blood of these little girls may well serve as a redemptive force for this city."

Denise McNair, 11, Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley, both 14, were buried a day following the funeral of the fourth victim of Sunday's unsolved bombing, Carole Robertson, 14.

Still to be buried, next Sunday, are two young Negro victims of violence that broke out a few hours after the bombing of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church.

Police estimated that 4,000, including numerous white persons, went to the funeral, although only about half that number could get inside the Sixth Avenue Baptist Church, across town from the church where the girls met their deaths while studying a lesson on "the love that forgives."

Two of the 23 persons injured when the bomb went off were still hospitalized, as was a 16-year-old white boy struck in the head by a brick.

FBI bomb experts and city and state authorities continued to seek clues leading to the person who placed the fatal bomb, while rewards for his capture climbed to $76,000.

Boy Vandals Are Sent To Diagnostic Center

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Two Franklin Furnace teen-age boys held for recent vandalism at the Green Township High School have been ordered sent to the Juvenile Diagnostic Center in Columbus by Juvenile Court Judge Paul E. Fowler.

Judge Fowler said he was placing the boys in the permanent custody of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction. Authorities said the boys' vandalism at the school caused damage in excess of $1,000.

The answer, in the last analysis, rests in the local community and in the hearts of people, Kennedy said.

The Negro has been subjected to injustices for many decades and wants to be heard, Kennedy continued. He said he thought progress would be made if the white community would take the attitude of "maybe we'll disagree, but at least we can discuss these grievances."

Texans Battle Flood Waters

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Weary men labored through the night to keep flood waters loosened by departed hurricane Cindy from topping a levee and spilling into the neighboring town of Port Acres.

Cloudbursts of the past two days subsided into occasional light showers. All but a few of several thousand evacuees were able to return and start shoveling mud from soggy homes.

Emphasizing that losses could not be appraised accurately until flood waters finish ebbing, the Jefferson County Civil Defense Council estimated damage might reach $10.5 million.

The council appealed for Texas Gov. John Connally to declare the county, which includes Beaumont and Port Arthur, a disaster area. Rains measuring up to nearly two feet drained into the Neches River and created the threat to Port Acres, 10 miles south of here and just west of Port Arthur.

Spokesman for the U.S. Engineers said if water topped an eight-foot levee protecting Port Acres, it could gush into 600 of the town's 1,000 homes and rout more than 2,000 people.

In a final advisory on hurricane Cindy, the Weather Bureau said it had degenerated into little more than a trace of the storm which packed 80-mile winds two days ago.

Predicting showers for another day or two over southern Louisiana and much of south Texas, the Weather Bureau said the last traces of Cindy should disappear by early Friday at the latest over southwest Texas or northern Mexico.

News of World in Brief

CINCINNATI (AP) — A huge area around Cincinnati has been placed on a two-day smog alert. The alert was issued Wednesday by the Weather Bureau research unit at the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center.

Scientists said conditions for smog are ripe today and Friday—and that chemicals that go to make up smog have been building up in the air since Tuesday.

The alert area is bounded by Knoxville, Tenn.; Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Evansville, Ind.; Detroit; Asheville, N.C.; Altoona, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio.

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Operations returned to normal today at the General American Transportation Corp. plant in Masury as the United Steelworkers Union ended a six-day-old strike under court order.

A jurisdictional dispute between USW Locals 2318 and 1534 had idled 1,250 workers at the Trumbull County facility.

Common Pleas Court Judge G. T. Birrell Wednesday ordered the locals to cease and desist from engaging in a strike. He said the walkout was in violation of the collective bargaining agreement with the company.

BERLIN (AP)—Conductor Theodore Bloomfield, 40-year-old former artistic director of the Royal Opera House, died today.

He died of a heart attack while on tour in the Soviet Union. He had been in the Soviet Union for several weeks.

BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — Walter Hista Jr. is a free young man today—free of a murder charge that hung over his head since last February when his police chief father was shot to death.

A Beaver County jury acquitted the 19-year-old defendant Wednesday, and he returned to his home where last Feb. 28 his father was shot five times with his own service revolver.

The jury of ten women and two men deliberated almost four hours before returning the verdict.

Defense attorney John Conte had argued that the defendant was emotionally disturbed the night of the shooting. Dist. Atty. Richard P. Steward had asked for a first-degree murder conviction.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will be here Saturday to address an annual Democratic rally, but his stay will be a brief one.

Johnson now is scheduled to arrive at Toledo Express Airport at 2 p. m. Saturday, go directly to Raceway Park where the rally is being staged, make his speech and then return to the airport for a flight to East Liverpool where he will address another rally.

CALLANDER, Ont. (AP)—The father of the Dionne quintuplets said today his famous daughters' story about a hard and unhappy childhood is untrue.

"There are two sides to every story and Mrs. Dionne and I have ours," said Olivia Dionne in an interview in the rambling farm house the family lived in before the quintuplets were born. The mansion where the five sisters grew up was sold in 1957, and the parents moved back to the homestead.

He expressed dismay over the publication of a magazine article in which the four surviving sisters said: "It was the saddest home we ever knew."

Soviet Seeks Disarmament

U.N. Assembly Hears Gromyko's Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today proposed an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament during the first quarter of 1964.

The proposal was made by the Soviet leader in a major policy declaration before the U.N. General Assembly. President Kennedy will give the U.S. policy statement Friday.

Gromyko asserted that the assembly session was opening in a more favorable atmosphere this year as a result of recent developments, including the signing of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Gromyko specifically proposed that the 18-nation disarmament committee meet "with the participation of leading statesmen of the highest level." He suggested that the meeting might be held in Moscow.

He said that the meeting should deal both with the question of complete and general disarmament and with separate measures to achieve the further alleviation of international tension.

The speech was generally mild, in comparison with Soviet declarations at recent U.N. sessions, and Gromyko stressed repeatedly what he called the change international climate.

His harshest words were reserved for West Germany. He charged that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had consistently tried to block measures which would relax tensions.

Gromyko spoke after Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson had called on member nations to take advantage of the improved international atmosphere. He called this session "the assembly of opportunity."

Brazilian Foreign Minister Joao Augusto de Araujo Castro led off the general debate by challenging the nuclear powers to broaden immediately the limited nuclear test ban treaty to include underground testing.

Gromyko ranged over the whole field of foreign affairs. Turning to outer space problems, he proposed an agreement between the Soviet Union and the United States banning the launching of nuclear-bearing vehicles into space.

On the question of Red China, Gromyko once more pressed for the seating of the Peking regime in the United Nations despite the Moscow-Peking split.

British, French Urged Build Tunnel

LONDON (AP) — A group of British and French experts today recommended their governments build a tunnel under the English Channel but warned that financing it may be difficult.

After a two-year study the British and French officials estimated the capital cost of a tunnel at 143 million pounds ($400,000,000).

They rejected an alternate suggestion of a bridge, saying it would cost twice as much and would be a serious hazard to shipping.

The plan calls for a 32-mile railway tunnel between Folkestone on the English side and Sangatte, a French village five miles west of Calais. It would take about six years to complete.

Tito, Brazilian Chief Confer on Problems

BRASILIA (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia sits down with President Joao Goulart of Brazil today, seeking trade as well as support of Yugoslavia's nonalignment policies.

Tito and his wife, Jovanka, arrived Wednesday for the start of his first Latin-American tour.

Tito will leave for Bolivia Monday. He will make stops in Chile and Mexico before his arrival in Washington Oct. 16 for an eight-day visit.

President Urges People To Back Tax Cut Demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has urged the people to speak up in support of his tax reduction program. He said its benefits would range from new washing machines for families to new strength around the world for the American dollar and freedom.

"But that bill is in danger of being weakened or deferred," declared Kennedy. "It needs your help, your voice."

Thus through a national radio and television speech, the President sought to light a grassroots fire under Congress on behalf of the $11-billion tax reduction — which he called the most important domestic economic measure in 15 years.

The first major hurdle will come next Wednesday when the House is expected to vote on the tax program. But Kennedy was also looking toward the Senate where the bill faces a stormy time.

Kennedy directed his appeal all along the economic front, from businessmen to factory workers, from families watching their own shaky budgets to citizens worried over the government's unbalanced budget.

He asked for quick passage of the bill without a proposed Republican amendment tying tax cuts to curbs on spending.

Almost as soon as Kennedy finished his address, William E. Miller, Republican national chairman, fired off telegrams to the networks asking equal time to reply to the President.

Reporting to GOP charges of fiscal recklessness, Kennedy said: "No wasteful, inefficient or unnecessary government activity will be tolerated on the grounds that it helps employment. We are pledged to a course of true fiscal responsibility leading to a balanced budget."

Much of his appeal was directed to people like the $8,000-a-year family whose prospective benefits he singled out as an example. The head of such a household, he said, could look to the tax cut for enough extra take home pay to meet "the installations on a new dishwasher for his wife."

Other families, he went on, might prefer to use theirs on "a new spring wardrobe, or a washing machine, or a longer vacation trip, or a down payment on a new car or a new home." And he said the demand so created would help the country "skip a recession" and provide the 10 million jobs needed in the next 2½ years.

Kennedy obviously was looking for some help from Republicans, too.

He said: "This is not a question of party — it is a question of jobs and growth. It is a question of whether our taxpayers and businessmen and workers will get the break they deserve. As the Congress prepares to vote on this issue, I strongly urge you to support this bill for your family's sake and for your country's sake."

Turncoat Says Citizenship Not Deserved

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Frankly, I wouldn't let a person such as myself keep his citizenship," turncoat Scott Rush says.

Rush, who recently returned to the United States from Red China after defecting during the Korean War, made the statement at a Tucson Press Club forum Wednesday night.

The former Army sergeant, who brought his Chinese wife, Helen, and their year-old child back to this country with him, underwent a barrage of questions from the audience which included a group of retired military officers.

Rush, a former resident of Marietta, Ohio, said the Army should teach its recruits more about the American way of life and about communism, so they would know where they stand.

"I don't want to see other kids making the same mistake I did," he said. "The truth about communism won't win him from the American way of life."

"The truth is that you aided and abetted the enemy," a former military officer retorted.

"Yes sir," Rush replied. "That is the truth."

Consolidation Due in Steel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has announced plans to consolidate seven of its general operating divisions in efforts to simplify and streamline the corporate structure.

The seven divisions — American Steel & Wire, Columbia — Geneva Steel, Michigan Limestone, National Tube, Oliver Iron Mining, Pittsburgh Steamship, and Tennessee Coal & Iron — are to be joined under the firm's larger steel producing units of its central operations.

"The move," U.S. Steel said, "will be a continuation of a program commenced in 1951. It is designed to improve market participation, reduce costs, and generally enhance the position and performance of United States Steel in serving its customers and the public, and in meeting the intense competition ahead."

Indonesians Apologize for British Rap

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno's government, under pressure from London and Washington, expressed regret today for the burning and looting of the British Embassy and other British property by an Indonesian mob.

An uneasy calm prevailed in Jakarta. But British women and children started leaving Indonesia.

The International School catering to children of foreign diplomats was closed for the day. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the wives and children of Americans were advised to stay at home.

Strong forces of Indonesian troops stood guard at various points, including British Ambassador Andrew G. Gilchrist's residence, the residential compound of the Shell Oil Co., and British homes which had been pillaged by rioters Wednesday.

Troops appeared to have restored order after the rampage by more than 10,000 Indonesians protesting creation of the British-sponsored, anti-Communist Federation of Malaysia.

Two Asian statesmen — Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan and Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand — offered peacemaking services.

Ikeda, who is heading to Southeast Asia Monday, said in Tokyo he will try his "very best to facilitate a solution." In Bangkok, Khoman pledged Thailand will undertake "anything we can do" to solve the crisis.

Bayonets Won't Solve Race Issue, Bob Kennedy Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today he does not think that sending federal troops to Birmingham would solve the racial crisis there.

"For Washington to step in and say, 'Everyone's going to get along or we'll prick you with a bayonet,' would not erase the antagonism between the races," the attorney general added.

The council appealed for Texas Gov. John Connally to declare the county, which includes Beaumont and Port Arthur, a disaster area. Rains measuring up to nearly two feet drained into the Neches River and created the threat to Port Acres, 10 miles south of here and just west of Port Arthur.

Spokesman for the U.S. Engineers said if water topped an eight-foot levee protecting Port Acres, it could gush into 600 of the town's 1,000 homes and rout more than 2,000 people.

In a final advisory on hurricane Cindy, the Weather Bureau said it had degenerated into little more than a trace of the storm which packed 80-mile winds two days ago.

Predicting showers for another day or two over southern Louisiana and much of south Texas, the Weather Bureau said the last traces of Cindy should disappear by early Friday at the latest over southwest Texas or northern Mexico.

News of World in Brief

CINCINNATI (AP) — A huge area around Cincinnati has been placed on a two-day smog alert.

The alert was issued Wednesday by the Weather Bureau research unit at the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center. Scientists said conditions for smog are ripe today and Friday—and that chemicals that go to make up smog have been building up in the air since Tuesday.

The alert area is bounded by Knoxville, Tenn.; Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Evansville, Ind.; Detroit; Asheville, N.C.; Altoona, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio.

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Operations returned to normal today at the General American Transportation Corp. plant in Masury as the United Steelworkers Union ended a six-day-old strike under court order.

A jurisdictional dispute between USW Locals 2318 and 1534 had idled 1,250 workers at the Trumbull County facility.

Common Pleas Court Judge G. T. Birrell Wednesday ordered the locals to cease and desist from engaging in a strike. He said the walkout was in violation of the collective bargaining agreement with the company.

BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — Walter Hista Jr. is a free young man today—free of a murder charge that hung over his head since last February when his police chief father was shot to death.

A Beaver County jury acquitted the 19-year-old defendant Wednesday, and he returned to his home where last Feb. 28 his father was shot five times with his own service revolver.

The jury of ten women and two men deliberated almost four hours before returning the verdict.

Defense attorney John Conte had argued that the defendant was emotionally disturbed the night of the shooting. Dist. Atty. Richard P. Steward had asked for a first-degree murder conviction.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will be here Saturday to address an annual Democratic rally, but his stay will be a brief one.

Johnson now is scheduled to arrive at Toledo Express Airport at 2 p. m. Saturday, go directly to Raceway Park where the rally is being staged, make his speech and then return to the airport for a flight to East Liverpool where he will address another rally.

CALLANDER, Ont. (AP) — The father of the Dionne quintuplets said today his famous daughters' story about a hard and unhappy childhood is untrue.

"There are two sides to every story and Mrs. Dionne and I have ours," said Oliva Dionne in an interview in the rambling farm house the family lived in before the quintuplets were born. The mansion where the five sisters grew up was sold in 1957, and the parents moved back to the homestead.

He expressed dismay over the publication of a magazine article in which the four surviving sisters said: "It was the saddest home we ever knew."

Soviet Seeks Disarmament

U.N. Assembly Hears Gromyko's Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today proposed an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament during the first quarter of 1964.

The proposal was made by the Soviet leader in a major policy declaration before the U.N. General Assembly. President Kennedy will give the U.S. policy statement Friday.

Gromyko asserted that the assembly session was opening in a more favorable atmosphere this year as a result of recent developments, including the signing of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Gromyko specifically proposed that the 18-nation disarmament committee meet "with the participation of leading statesmen of the highest level." He suggested that the meeting might be held in Moscow.

He said that the meeting should deal both with the question of complete and general disarmament and with separate measures to achieve the further alleviation of international tension.

The speech was generally mild, in comparison with Soviet declarations at recent U.N. sessions, and Gromyko stressed repeatedly what he called the change international climate.

His harshest words were reserved for West Germany. He charged that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had consistently tried to block measures which would relax tensions.

Gromyko spoke after Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson had called on member nations to take advantage of the improved international atmosphere. He called this session "the assembly of opportunity."

Brazilian Foreign Minister Joao Augusto de Araujo Castro led off the general debate by challenging the nuclear powers to broaden immediately the limited nuclear test ban treaty to include underground testing.

Gromyko ranged over the whole field of foreign affairs.

Turning to outer space problems, he proposed an agreement between the Soviet Union and the United States banning the launching of nuclear-bearing vehicles into space.

On the question of Red China, Gromyko once more pressed for the seating of the Peking regime in the United Nations despite the Moscow-Peking split.

British, French Urged Build Tunnel

LONDON (AP) — A group of British and French experts today recommended their governments build a tunnel under the English Channel but warned that financing it may be difficult.

After a two-year study the British and French officials estimated the capital cost of a tunnel at 143 million pounds ($400,000,000).

They rejected an alternate suggestion of a bridge, saying it would cost twice as much and would be a serious hazard to shipping.

The plan calls for a 32-mile railway tunnel between Folkestone on the English side and Sangatte, a French village five miles west of Calais. It would take about six years to complete.

Tito, Brazilian Chief Confer on Problems

BRASILIA (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia sits down with President Joao Goulart of Brazil today, seeking trade as well as support of Yugoslavia's nonalignment policies.

Tito and his wife, Jovanka, arrived Wednesday for the start of his first Latin-American tour.

Tito will leave for Bolivia Monday. He will make stops in Chile and Mexico before his arrival in Washington Oct. 16 for an eight-day visit.

JFK Plans Departure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, who is to address the United Nations General Assembly Friday morning, plans to fly to New York late today.

7 Negro Aides, JFK To Parley

Meeting Late Today To Eye Birmingham

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy meets today with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and six other Negro leaders to discuss the simmering racial situation in Birmingham, Ala.

On Monday, five of the Negroes called on Kennedy to send federal troops to Birmingham to control "civil disorder."

Long weeks of racial tension in the Alabama steel city reached a climax Sunday when a bomb was tossed into a Negro church, killing four children and injuring 23 others. In later incidents the same day, two Negro youths were killed.

The situation in Birmingham brought a call Wednesday from Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, for the federal government to "cut off every nickel and every dime going into Alabama."

Wilkins told a news conference here that President Kennedy should start by "closing down Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery immediately."

Besides King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the group calling on Kennedy includes Ralph D. Abernathy, King's deputy, and these five leaders of Birmingham's Negro community:

The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, leader of the Alabama Human Rights Movement; A. G. Gaston, businessman whose home and motel were recently bombed; Dr. Lucius Pitts, president of Miles College; Bishop H. I. Murchison; the Rev. J. L. Ware.

REA Test Case Date Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Power Commission hearings in a test case involving South Central Rural Electric Cooperative of Lancaster, Ohio, have been postponed from Oct. 22 to Dec. 10. The Ohio cop and others in Wisconsin and North Dakota have been directed to show cause why they should not have to comply with certain of the commission's regulations.

At issue is whether the federal agency has jurisdiction over co-operatives which transmit or wholesale electricity in interstate commerce. The commission said the postponement resulted from requests to intervene filed by the secretary of agriculture, the Committee on Rural Electric Cooperatives and various co-op groups.

Columbus Day Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has proclaimed Oct. 12 as Columbus Day—the 471st anniversary of the sighting of the new world.

Sen. Lausche Plans 'No' Vote On Nuclear Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, previously counted as a supporter of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, told the Senate today he will vote against its ratification.

He said that the ban on all but underground testing of nuclear weapons could "create a condition that will bring Russia to a position of supremacy in power."

He added if that occurs, he has "great misgivings about what will happen to our country." He said that peace has been maintained only because of U.S. military might.

Lausche had been regarded as a supporter of the treaty since, as a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, he lined up with the majority in its 16-1 vote in recommending it to the Senate. At the time, he reserved the right to change his mind.

He became the 14th senator to announce his opposition to the pact. His switch from indicated support reduced to 80 the number of senators who have announced their support of the treaty or indicated they will vote for its ratification.

President Kennedy has asked for a big margin "to show the world that the American people want a just peace."

Lausche, in saying he had decided to vote against ratification of the treaty, recalled that some well-intentioned pacts in the past had not proved out, and predicted of this one: "It will rise to plague us."

He recalled that in 1938 after the Munich conference British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain proclaimed "peace in our time."

He said Chamberlain was a well-intentioned man, and went on to say that he feared "we are faced with a similar situation today."

Lausche said that in his judgment Russia's word cannot be relied on. He said Russia is provoking tensions throughout the world and will abide by its signature to the test ban treaty only as long as it suits her.

Referring to Chamberlain, Lausche said that "he believed that by the agreement which he made with Hitler and Mussolini he served not only the people of Great Britain but of the world."

However, Lausche said, "Peace

Horn Opposes Tower Removal

Sewer, Standpipe Legislation Is Approved by City Council

Legislation calling for the levy of special assessments for the construction of sanitary sewers in Circleville Sewer District No. 2 and authorization to advertise for bids for demolition of the standpipe water tower at the old city waterworks plant was approved this week by City Council.

The sewer in District No. 2, described in a resolution adopted by Council in 1961, bear an aggregate construction cost of $134,867.21 to benefit property owners. Assessment adjustments filed last month by an equalizing board were approved by the solons.

According to this week's approving ordinance, the total assessment against each lot or parcel of land should be payable in cash in 30 days, or at the option of the owner, in 10 annual installments with interest at the same rate to be borne by bonds to be issued in anticipation of collection.

Assessments and installments remaining unpaid at the end of 30 days shall be certified to the county auditor as provided by law where they will be placed on the tax duplicate and collected as other taxes are.

THE STANDPIPE demolition resolution signaled the end of operations at the city's old waterworks plant, just west of the Scioto River in Jackson Twp. The new plant on the opposite side of the Scioto was placed in operation last month.

The measure, approved over the objections of Councilman Boyd Horn, authorized the Board of Public Utilities to advertise for bids for the demolition.

Horn based his negative vote on the opinion the tower should remain in case of an unforeseen water supply emergency and possible use in years to come. He said it would be unwise to ask taxpayers for money in the future to build something they have now.

The objecting councilman bolstered his comments by saying it is not unrealistic to believe that someday Circleville will be in need of additional water facilities. He said the current standpipe could go a long way in meeting this need, rather than go to the people and ask for more money for new equipment.

The outspoken solon said "the present facility has served the city for about 75 years. The quality metal it is composed of indicates it could be used another 75 years."

A provision in the resolution notes that the lowest and best bid shall be determined on the basis of money the bidder is willing to pay the city for the standpipe as salvage.

A SECOND resolution gaining the lawmakers' approval authorized installation of street lights at three city locations. One will be erected on the north side of Half Ave., one at the first alley south of Half Ave. on Clinton St. and one at Collins Court in the vicinity of the entrance from N. Court St.

In other legislation, the solons appropriated $788.22 to be used as payment for the city's share of the cost of constructing the City View Sewer District.

In a new broadside against the Soviet Union, President Liu Shao-chi of Red China accused "modern revisionists" of replacing the hard revolutionary policies of Marx and Lenin with a soft philosophy of survival.

Liu spoke Wednesday in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. His remarks were broadcast by the New China news agency.

Sen. Lausche Plans 'No' Vote On Nuclear Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, previously counted as a supporter of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, told the Senate today he will vote against its ratification.

He said that the ban on all but underground testing of nuclear weapons could "create a condition that will bring Russia to a position of supremacy in power."

He added if that occurs, he has "great misgivings about what will happen to our country." He said that peace has been maintained only because of U.S. military might.

Lausche had been regarded as a supporter of the treaty since, as a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, he lined up with the majority in its 16-1 vote in recommending it to the Senate. At the time, he reserved the right to change his mind.

He became the 14th senator to announce his opposition to the pact. His switch from indicated support reduced to 80 the number of senators who have announced their support of the treaty or indicated they will vote for its ratification.

President Kennedy has asked for a big margin "to show the world that the American people want a just peace."

Lausche, in saying he had decided to vote against ratification of the treaty, recalled that some well-intentioned pacts in the past had not proved out, and predicted of this one: "It will rise to plague us."

He recalled that in 1938 after the Munich conference British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain proclaimed "peace in our time."

He said Chamberlain was a well-intentioned man, and went on to say that he feared "we are faced with a similar situation today."

Lausche said that in his judgment Russia's word cannot be relied on. He said Russia is provoking tensions throughout the world and will abide by its signature to the test ban treaty only as long as it suits her.

Referring to Chamberlain, Lausche said that "he believed that by the agreement which he made with Hitler and Mussolini he served not only the people of Great Britain but of the world."

was not the lot of the world, but genocide, tortuous and devastating war."

"The people of Ohio," he said, "do not want the Senate of the United States to approve a compact with Red Russia that would endanger the future security of the United States. They do not want the honor of our country to be tarnished by unreasonable and unjustifiable exactions of any foreign government. They want peace with honor."

At the outset of today's session, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he had been disturbed by what he termed a trend among columnists, commentators and cartoonists to question the motives of senators in taking positions on the treaty.

Mansfield said the treaty had caused "a great deal of soul-searching" among senators, and that he didn't question the motives.

He expressed hope that when the final vote has been taken, no columnist, commentator, cartoonist nor any organization would impugn the patriotism or good faith of any senator regardless of his position.

THE OHIO HISTORICAL SOCIETY

NEW SIGN — This new informational sign has been erected at Logan Elm State Memorial by the Ohio Historical Society. Legend says the noted Indian Chief Logan made his plea for peace at the site of the tree in 1774. The large sign explains the historic background and circumstances under which Logan made his famous statement. The marker, prepared by the Historical Society staff, is of light green weatherproof panels processed to last seven years. The Society is conducting similar projects at other state memorials. Logan Elm is five miles south of Circleville, a mile east of Route 23 on Route 361. The park is open to the public during daylight hours.

Horn Opposes Tower Removal

Sewer, Standpipe Legislation Is Approved by City Council

Legislation calling for the levy of special assessments for the construction of sanitary sewers in Circleville Sewer District No. 2 and authorization to advertise for bids for demolition of the standpipe water tower at the old city waterworks plant was approved this week by City Council.

The sewer in District No. 2, described in a resolution adopted by Council in 1961, bear an aggregate construction cost of $134,867.21 to benefit property owners. Assessment adjustments filed last month by an equalizing board were approved by the solons.

According to this week's approving ordinance, the total assessment against each lot or parcel of land should be payable in cash in 30 days, or at the option of the owner, in 10 annual installments with interest at the same rate to be borne by bonds to be issued in anticipation of collection.

Assessments and installments remaining unpaid at the end of 30 days shall be certified to the county auditor as provided by law where they will be placed on the tax duplicate and collected as other taxes are.

THE STANDPIPE demolition resolution signaled the end of operations at the city's old waterworks plant, just west of the Scioto River in Jackson Twp. The new plant on the opposite side of the Scioto was placed in operation last month.

The measure, approved over the objections of Councilman Boyd Horn, authorized the Board of Public Utilities to advertise for bids for the demolition.

Horn based his negative vote on the opinion the tower should remain in case of an unforeseen water supply emergency and possible use in years to come. He said it would be unwise to ask taxpayers for money in the future to build something they have now.

The objecting councilman bolstered his comments by saying it is not unrealistic to believe that someday Circleville will be in need of additional water facilities. He said the current standpipe could go a long way in meeting this need, rather than go to the people and ask for more money for new equipment.

The outspoken solon said "the present facility has served the city for about 75 years. The quality metal it is composed of indicates it could be used another 75 years."

A provision in the resolution notes that the lowest and best bid shall be determined on the basis of money the bidder is willing to pay the city for the standpipe as salvage.

A SECOND resolution gaining the lawmakers' approval authorized installation of street lights at three city locations. One will be erected on the north side of Half Ave., one at the first alley south of Half Ave. on Clinton St. and one at Collins Court in the vicinity of the entrance from N. Court St.

In other legislation, the solons appropriated $788.22 to be used as payment for the city's share of the cost of constructing the City View Sewer District.

Parent Duty To Pupil Cited

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Bar Association says parents have a legal duty to see to it that their children go to school unless the law exempts them.

In a column prepared by member counselors, "You and the Law," the attorneys noted that many persons are concerned with excessive high school dropouts.

"If the youngster misses three days of school without an excuse the school board may treat him as a truant and may call the parents in to find out why he is absent," the attorneys said.

They point out that the habitual truant may be ordered before Juvenile Court to explain his conduct.

The court may make him a ward and place him in another home if his parents are not properly caring for him, the attorneys wrote.

Office Borrowers Catalogued

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—The average business office today is a pawnshop without the usual gilt three-ball sign.

"Neither a borrower nor a lender be," wrote Shakespeare, a bit of advice from the bard that is honored more in neglect than in observance.

The employees of most firms spend at least part of the working day borrowing from each other, and the custom has many social as well as financial advantages.

It helps them to pass the time. It improves their arithmetic, it enables them to find out who their real friends are (if any), and it keeps alive some wastrels who might otherwise starve between paydays.

While office borrowing isn't universal, it is practically so. A crisp new $5 bill, loaned to one person in the morning, may travel briefly through half a dozen pockets before nightfall — as it is borrowed and reborrowed. Sometimes it even winds up in the same pocket from which its journey started.

If you look around your own office, you may find the following types of white collar borrowers familiar.

"The competitor" — If he sees you lend $3 to someone, he immediately asks you for $6 — because he can't stand to see anybody else get ahead of him at anything.

"The tragedian" — Before he makes his touch, he breaks your heart with a tale of woe. "All I want is carfare and enough to buy one red rose," he weeps. "My daughter is having her adenoids out, and I want to visit her in the hospital."

"The grand evader" — "Don't bother me with trifles," he says loftily when you ask him humbly for the $25 he has owed you since Christmas. "I'm working on a deal now that'll make us both rich."

"The compulsive wheedler" — If you don't have any ready cash, he'll borrow anything else you have. It's a matter of pride with this guy never to go away empty-handed.

"The hypochondriac" — You can keep your money. It's your medicine this fellow wants.

"The pyramid artist" — On payday he pays you the $5 he borrowed, and the next day he borrows $10. He keeps building up his debt this way until, when he is fired at the end of the year, he leaves with you holding the sack for $10.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy urges American manufacturers and farmers to sell $2 billion more of their products abroad each year. Or, to put it the other way, he wants foreigners to buy $2 billion more of American goods.

He says Americans could increase the total of exports if they looked beyond home markets, put more hard-sell into their efforts abroad, and if they lowered prices to meet competition from other industrial countries.

Foreigners presumably could find the money to buy more from us by buying less from our competitor and by using more of the dollar assets they pile up from sales of their goods and raw materials to and from our foreign aid and other federal spending programs, and from dollars received as private investment overseas by Americans.

In spite of all the frebodin about growing foreign competition, U.S. export totals have been growing year by year. They came to $20.5 billion in 1962.

American business has been able to expand many of its markets and hold others because of superior product, service, or efficiency of manufacturing and distribution. It has done so in the face of rising production costs at home, sharply contrasted to generally lower production costs (particularly labor) in the fast rising industrial lands of Western Europe and Japan.

The rub has come from this: While the total of exports has grown, the share of the world's markets has fallen. U.S. exports were still expanding, but those of other nations were increasing much faster.

Rising wages and other production costs in Europe have led many Americans to believe that the price advantage some European products have in world markets was shrinking.

But statistics issued by the Commission of the European Economic Community show that while prices paid by the consumers in Europe are rising, the prices on exported goods have gone up very little.

President Kennedy has told American producers they might try the same thing—boost exports by producing more and keeping prices low, instead of the other way around.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

"Man chokes to death while eating dinner" is a newspaper headline that recurs every once in a while. The story usually goes on to give the dramatic and heroic details of the life-saving attempts at "table-top restaurant surgery" performed by unskilled hands.

Such stories strike unnecessary terror, especially in those people who have a tendency to develop an occasional choking spasm while eating.

For reassurance, it must be emphasized that choking to death by food is a rare, very rare, accident. So rare, in fact, that the possibility of its occurrence must not even vaguely be considered as a significant threat to health.

When the mechanism of breathing is clearly understood, the fear of choking should be minimized. Armed with this knowledge, everyone can offer reasonable and effective emergency help to anyone who seems to be choking because of a spasm of the larynx or because food has "gone down the wrong way."

Normally, air is inhaled through the mouth, then passes through the larynx and trachea to empty its vital oxygen into the lung. From here the oxygen is absorbed into the blood stream.

The lungs then collect the carbon dioxide waste accumulated from all parts of the body and in reverse fashion exhale this carbon dioxide through the mouth.

Any interference with this cycle of unobstructed breathing impairs the safety and the normal functions of the body.

A complex and delicate reflex mechanism acts as a defense against the possibility of food entering the air passages instead of following their normal pathway—the esophagus to the stomach.

Occasionally, however, food does seem to "go down the wrong way," causing a severe but temporary spasm and a choking sensation. It is the spasm that prevents air from entering the lungs and therefore momentarily interferes with breathing. A terrifying feeling of panic almost invariably results.

These spasms usually disappear quickly, especially if the person is relaxed and reassured. Nature has its own safety fuse against the danger of choking to death during one of these spasms. For when the spasm is prolonged, and the air intake delayed, the individual becomes faint and momentarily "passes out" because of lack of oxygen. When this occurs, the spasm automatically disappears.

Once in a very great while, food actually does go into the windpipe or larynx. Then nature has another technique for dislodging it. Sharp, explosive coughing almost invariably displaces the food and the breathing returns to normal.

An additional safe way to dislodge such a foreign body from the windpipe is to bend the person forward and apply sharp, snappy blows to the back, between the shoulder blades. Small children can be turned upside-down while applying this technique.

An attempt to dislodge the food by finger extraction sometimes interferes with nature's own mechanism and further jams the substance into the airway.

Panic occasionally induces some people to try heroic surgical feats. Unless exceedingly well trained for such emergencies, more damage than good can be inflicted.

The danger of choking on food is infinitesimally small and should not cause any undue anxiety if a spasm occurs.

The ombu tree which grows in the Argentine pampas is a tree whose wood will not burn, which cyclones cannot uproot, which is not affected by drought, which shuns disease and is abhorred by insects and birds. Experts cannot estimate its life span.

Rats and the Human Race

By John Chamberlain

Although I am one of those glandular optimists who can forget the troubles of the world after a good meal (as the preacher says, "sufficient unto the day is the column thereof"), a couple of things have been bothering me lately even after the supper dishes have been put away.

The first particularly worrisome item is the discovery, by Dr. Malcolm C. McKenna, a paleontologist on the staff of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, that man and the rat are descended from a common ratlike ancestor. This may let the apes off the hook, but it can hardly improve the "image" of our own species. The idea of having a monkey for a forefather used to bother the Victorians, but what would they have said if Darwin had claimed that rats and human beings were basically related?

The damaging thing about Dr. McKenna's discovery is that it makes a lot of things devastatingly clear. Monkeys are amiable, chattering creatures, given to mimicry and the enjoyment of peanuts. The monkey's habits, if they have been passed on to humans, may explain Broadway actors and the gustatory choices of baseball fans. But rats! If they are the ancestors of a species that goes in for political persecutions and dropping bombs on each other it explains all too much.

The other thing that is bothering me may seem a little odd when placed in the context of Dr. McKenna's theory about the relationship between rats and humans, for it amounts to a lament that we may be deprived in the election campaign of 1964 of the opportunity of behaving like rats. This deprivation would be a natural consequence if the Republicans nominated affable Barry Goldwater to oppose that charming Democrat, John F. Kennedy. Nobody, it seems, can dislike Goldwater, and if there are people who dislike Kennedy they have little chance of getting past a press corps that persists in liking the President very much.

In the 1960 campaign a lot of people built up a real head of steam against the personality of Richard Nixon. For myself, I never could see the reason for the animus. One of my cherished memories is of an hour's conversation with Nixon about Whittaker Chambers — or "Uncle Whit", as Nixon called him. Nixon was both humble and objective about the help which Chambers, a really selfless man, had given him towards understanding the ins and outs of Communism. Just how anyone could hate a man who possesses both humility and objectivity has always mystified me. Nevertheless, there was something sense of remoteness — that annoyed reporters. It would be a canard to say that journalists took it out on Nixon directly. But they didn't trample anybody in the rush to discover good things to say about Nixon — maybe it was a about Nixon's candidacy. Dislike of Nixon made 1960 a horse race. But assuming that 1964, how is anyone going to work up the sort of lather that is needed to turn a Presidential election into a real contest? Everybody, including John F. Kennedy, loves Barry and his family and his Arizona background. And it works the other way around, for Barry himself has frequently spoken of the Kennedy charm. This through even in the pages of Victor Lasky's anti-Kennedy book, "J.F.K.: The Man and the Myth." As for the charm of the Kennedy family, it jumps right out of the pages that are devoted to Jacqueline Kennedy in Marianne Mead's fascinating "The Woman in the White House."

With charmer against charmer in 1964, just what will people do to clear the acid out of their systems. What will they do to keep their adrenal glands working? How will they get rid of their frustrations? How purge themselves of their natural aggressiveness?

The "Liberals" need somebody to hate, whether it is a Hitler, a Franco or just a Joe McCarthy. Certain members of the "far right" have a psychological need for villains, too. But if neither side nominates a person who can be presented in despicable colors, just how is the electorate to behave like the offspring of rats? How will we be able to live up to our newly discovered rodent heritage?

Who knows, maybe the next election will have to be fought out on the basis of ideas. Perish the thought! It's unworthy of a race that's descended from rats.

Letters to The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Sir:

I petition everyone who, like me, is starting to be concerned about not only his own job, but about there being enough jobs when our children are grown and need them.

Each of us is helping to close the door on a great part of the American way of life. How many of us, when buying, will bypass American-made products and buy those made in Japan and other countries because they are a little cheaper?

We do not, I am sure, want to live under the conditions that the people of those countries do. However, if we won't buy the products we make ourselves at the profit-making prices they must be sold for, we cannot make the money we do today nor can we maintain the standard of living we now enjoy.

You and I are going to have to begin to buy our own American-made products. It should not be long then until our country would have full employment and the door would be wide open for jobs for our children in the future. So let us stand and take our places the best way we can to fight for the future of ourselves and our children.

There is an old saying that most of us have said at sometime: "money sure does talk." If we don't take our stand now we may have to go to Japan to hear what this money is saying because that is where it will all be.

It is not up to the government or the next state or even the people in the next town—it is up to all of us, wherever we are right now, to start the wheels turning so there will be a future.

AN AMERICAN

Dear Editor:

I'm writing this letter to tell the people of Circleville how most of us teen-agers feel about the Youth Canteen.

Since there is no theatre the canteen is the only place for teen-agers to go and enjoy themselves without getting into trouble. There are a lot of rumors about the Canteen — good and bad — and I know that most of the people believe the bad ones because they've never been there to see what it's really like. It is said officials are trying to close it down just because some of the kids get hot or want to go outside and talk.

If the powers that be close it down, chances are there won't be any place for teen-agers to go. Then there is the likelihood they will roam the streets and get into trouble.

We're asking the people of Circleville to help strengthen the Canteen operation rather than downgrade it.

Many of these people who want to close it were young once themselves. And most of them probably had a theater to attend.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

"Man chokes to death while eating dinner" is a newspaper headline that recurs every once in a great while. The story usually goes on to give the dramatic and heroic details of the life-saving attempts at "table-top restaurant surgery" performed by unskilled hands.

Such stories strike unnecessary terror, especially in those people who have a tendency to develop an occasional choking spasm while eating.

For reassurance, it must be emphasized that choking to death by food is a rare, very rare, accident. So rare, in fact, that the possibility of its occurrence must not even vaguely be considered as a significant threat to health.

When the mechanism of breathing is clearly understood, the fear of choking should be minimized. Armed with this knowledge, everyone can offer reasonable and effective emergency help to anyone who seems to be choking because of a spasm of the larynx or because food has "gone down the wrong way."

Normally, air is inhaled through the mouth, then passes through the larynx and trachea to empty its vital oxygen into the lung. From there the oxygen is absorbed into the blood stream.

The lungs then collect the carbon dioxide waste accumulated from all parts of the body and in reverse fashion exhale this carbon dioxide through the mouth.

Any interference with this cycle of unobstructed breathing impairs the safety and the normal functions of the body.

A complex and delicate reflex mechanism acts as a defense against the possibility of food entering the air passages instead of following their normal pathway—the esophagus to the stomach.

Occasionally, however, food does seem to "go down the wrong way," causing a severe but temporary spasm and a choking sensation. It is the spasm that prevents air from entering the lungs and therefore momentarily interferes with breathing. A terrifying feeling of panic almost invariably results.

These spasms usually disappear quickly, especially if the person is relaxed and reassured. Nature has its own safety fuse against the danger of choking to death during one of these spasms. For when the spasm is prolonged, and the air intake delayed, the individual becomes faint and momentarily "passes out" because of lack of oxygen. When this occurs, the spasm automatically disappears.

Once in a very great while, food actually does go into the windpipe or larynx. Then nature has another technique for dislodging it. Sharp, explosive coughing almost invariably displaces the food and the breathing returns to normal.

An additional safe way to dislodge such a foreign body from the windpipe is to bend the person forward and apply sharp, snappy blows to the back, between the shoulder blades. Small children can be turned upside-down while applying this technique.

An attempt to dislodge the food by finger extraction sometimes interferes with nature's own mechanism and further jams the substance into the airway.

Panic occasionally induces some people to try heroic surgical feats. Unless exceedingly well trained for such emergencies, more damage than good can be inflicted.

The danger of choking on food is infinitesimally small and should not cause any undue anxiety if a spasm occurs.

The ombu tree which grows in the Argentine pampas is a tree whose wood will not burn, which cyclones cannot uproot, which is not affected by drought, which shuns disease and is abhorred by insects and birds. Experts cannot estimate its life span.

Letters to The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Sir:

I petition everyone who, like me, is starting to be concerned about not only his own job, but about there being enough jobs when our children are grown and need them.

Each of us is helping to close the door on a great part of the American way of life. How many of us, when buying, will bypass American-made products and buy those made in Japan and other countries because they are a little cheaper?

We do not, I am sure, want to live under the conditions that the people of those countries do. However, if we won't buy the products we make ourselves at the profit-making prices they must be sold for, we cannot make the money we do today nor can we maintain the standard of living we now enjoy.

You and I are going to have to begin to buy our own American-made products. It should not be long then until our country would have full employment and the door would be wide open for jobs for our children in the future. So let us stand and take our places the best way we can to fight for the future of ourselves and our children.

There is an old saying that most of us have said at some time: "money sure does talk." If we don't take our stand now we may have to go to Japan to hear what this money is saying because that is where it will all be.

It is not up to the government or the next state or even the people in the next town—it is up to all of us, wherever we are right now, to start the wheels turning so there will be a future.

AN AMERICAN

Dear Editor:

I'm writing this letter to tell the people of Circleville how most of us teen-agers feel about the Youth Canteen.

Since there is no theatre the canteen is the only place for teen-agers to go and enjoy themselves without getting into trouble. There are a lot of rumors about the Canteen — good and bad — and I know that most of the people believe the bad ones because they've never been there to see what it's really like. It is said officials are trying to close it down just because some of the kids get hot or want to go outside and talk.

If the powers that be close it down, chances are there won't be any place for teen-agers to go. Then there is the likelihood they will roam the streets and get into trouble.

We're asking the people of Circleville to help strengthen the Canteen operation rather than downgrade it.

Many of these people who want to close it were young once themselves. And most of them probably had a theater to attend.

Rats and the Human Race

By John Chamberlain

Although I am one of those glandular optimists who can forget the troubles of the world after a good meal (as the preacher says, "sufficient unto the day is the column thereof"), a couple of things have been bothering me lately even after the supper dishes have been put away.

The first particularly worrisome item is the discovery, by Dr. Malcolm C. McKenna, a paleontologist on the staff of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, that man and the rat are descended from a common ratlike ancestor. This may let the apes off the hook, but it can hardly improve the "image" of our own species. The idea of having a monkey for a forefather used to bother the Victorians, but what would they have said if Darwin had claimed that rats and human beings were basically related?

The damaging thing about Dr. McKenna's discovery is that it makes a lot of things devastatingly clear. Monkeys are amiable, chattering creatures, given to mimicry and the enjoyment of peanuns. The monkey's habits, if they have been passed on to humans, may explain Broadway actors and the gustatory choices of baseball fans. But rats! If they are the ancestors of a species that goes in for political persecutions and dropping bombs on each other it explains all too much.

The other thing that is bothering me may seem a little odd when placed in the context of Dr. McKenna's theory about the relationship between rats and humans, for it amounts to a lament that we may be deprived in the election campaign of 1964 of the opportunity of behaving like rats. This deprivation would be a natural consequence if the Republicans nominated affable Barry Goldwater to oppose that charming Democrat, John F. Kennedy. Nobody, it seems, can dislike Goldwater, and if there are people who dislike Kennedy they have little chance of getting past a press corps that persists in liking the President very much.

In the 1960 campaign a lot of people built up a real head of steam against the personality of Richard Nixon. For myself, I never could see the reason for the animus. One of my cherished memories is of an hour's conversation with Nixon about Whittaker Chambers — or "Uncle Whit", as Nixon called him. Nixon was both humble and objective about the help which Chambers, a really selfless man, had given him towards understanding the ins and outs of Communism. Just how anyone could hate a man who possesses both humility and objectivity has always mystified me. Nevertheless, there was something sense of remoteness — that annoyed reporters. It would be a canard to say that journalists took it out on Nixon directly. But they didn't trample anybody in the rush to discover good things to say about Nixon — maybe it was a about Nixon's candidacy. Dislike of Nixon made 1960 a horse race. But assuming that 1964, how is anyone going to work up the sort of lather that is needed to turn a Presidential election into a real contest? Everybody, including John F. Kennedy, loves Barry and his family and his Arizona background. And it works the other way around, for Barry himself has frequently spoken of the Kennedy charm. This through even in the pages of Victor Lasky's anti-Kennedy book, "J.F.K.: The Man and the Myth." As for the charm of the Kennedy family, it jumps right out of the pages that are devoted to Jacqueline Kennedy in Marianne Mead's fascinating "The Woman in the White House."

With charmer against charmer in 1964, just what will people do to clear the acid out of their systems. What will they do to keep their adrenal glands working? How will they get rid of their frustrations? How purge themselves of their natural aggressiveness?

The "Liberals" need somebody to hate, whether it is a Hitler, a Franco or just a Joe McCarthy. Certain members of the "far right" have a psychological need for villains, too. But if neither side nominates a person who can be presented in despicable colors, just how is the electorate to behave like the offspring of rats? How will we be able to live up to our newly discovered rodent heritage?

Who knows, maybe the next election will have to be fought out on the basis of ideas. Perish the thought! It's unworthy of a race that's descended from rats.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

He's a Winner, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: My husband manages a Little League baseball team. The boys think he's tops, but, oh, the parents! My husband tries to play all the boys, but recently, during the all-star game we were behind and my husband was afraid we'd lose the game, so he played the boys he thought could win for us. Well, two boys didn't get to play. After the game the mother of one of the two boys came over and called my husband every low name in the book. My husband just said, "I'm sorry, ma'am." Then the father of the other boy stepped up and cursed my husband and said baseball was only a game and it was more important to play all the boys than to win the game. My husband just said, "Yes, sir," but I could see he took it hard. He loves working with those kids, Abby, but he can't take the abuse from the parents. Should I make my husband quit?

MANAGER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No, I'm sure there are box seats behind the dugout in heaven reserved for Little League managers who have taken abuse from grown-ups in order to teach young people good sportsmanship. Your husband is one of them.

DEAR ABBY: My son graduated from high school in June. I sent invitations to our close relatives. All my husband's side of the family sent him a card of congratulations or a gift. But not one word came from MY side of the family. I was hurt and shocked. We went back to where my family lives for a vacation this summer. When I saw them I let them know how they had hurt me. Since we have returned I haven't heard one word from them. My husband says they're probably annoyed because I brought up their thoughtlessness, and I should forget it. I can't forget it. I feel terrible. Should I write each one and apologize?

HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Your husband is right. Forget it, and give them a chance to forget it, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14, and the oldest of five children, so it is my job to help my mother with the housework and with my younger brothers and sisters. They are a pain and I don't think it is fair that I have so many household responsibilities. Whenever I complain about the washing or ironing or baby-sitting, my mother gives me the old routine about what good "practice" it is for later on in life. Please help me. I plan to be a model or an actress and I don't NEED all this practice.

SLAVE

DEAR SLAVE: That's what YOU think. What do you think happens to all those breakdown models and actresses?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOYAL TO MY WIFE": Your kind of "loyalty" is far from admirable. If your wife finds your parents "objectionable", go to visit them without her, and take your children with you. It isn't fair that your parents see nothing of you or their grandchildren just because your wife "doesn't care" for them.

Kennedy Urges Public Back His Tax Cut Plan

The tax proposal that Republicans have put forth would provide that the tax cut, which Kennedy wants to start Jan. 1, would not take effect unless he submitted spending budgets not greater than $97 billion for the present fiscal year, which started July 1, and $98 billion for next year.

This would mean cuts of about $1 billion from this year's spending and perhaps as much as $3 billion to $4 billion from next year's which has not yet been estimated in detail.

Denouncing "credit card government," Miller, a New York congressman, told the networks in his telegrams asking equal time that millions of Americans in both parties disagree with what he called the "formula of living it up today through huge spending and charging the bills to our children and reducing federal revenues."

Without spelling it out, Kennedy lit into the earlier Republican proposal—and tried also to counter an expected slowdown in the Senate that might delay the bill until next year.

"Very few are openly opposed to cutting taxes," he said. "But there are those who, for one reason or another, hope to delay this bill, or to attach ruinous amendments, or to water down its effect."

"It must not be diluted by amendments or conditions. It must not be sent back to the House Ways and Means Committee. It must not be put off until next year."

"This nation needs a tax cut now—not a tax cut 'if'—not a tax cut 'when'—not a tax cut in the future or a tax cut for the few."

Some Democrats were quick to say the President's effort had improved their chances in the crucial votes next week.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., a member of the Ways and Means Committee which wrote the bill, said: "I definitely think the speech has helped us defeat the Republican motion. I think the vote will be fairly close, but I think we'll win."

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, who as Democratic leader has the main responsibility for getting out the vote, said he thinks "the President has made a very strong case."

In the Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that what he called Kennedy's excellent address would help.

Mansfield pledged continued efforts to have the bill passed this year.

But Republicans professed to find no reassurance in what Kennedy had to say about holding down spending—either in his speech or in an earlier letter endorsing a congressional declaration that passage of the bill would be a commitment against spending merely for the sake of economic stimulation.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fall output of turkeys and lamb places them among the meat leaders at supermarkets over the nation this weekend.

Other main course attractions include ribs of beef, fish, pork loins, hams and chickens.

Vegetable offerings include large supplies of rice and season-peak selections of many fresh vegetables.

Fruit counters continued to offer considerable variety, with summer berries and melons overlapping into fall tree fruits.

The turkey crop is expected to run about 93½ million birds, up slightly from last year.

Other fowl attractions include broiler fryers, with production running 5 to 8 per cent above a year ago as the seasonal peak tapers off. Stewing hens and roasters are also featured.

Beef attractions include rib roasts, chuck roasts and steaks. Pork production is beginning its fall pickup and prices are already reflecting this in some areas. Chops, loins and some cured varieties are most widely offered.

Cold storage stocks of fish are about 10 per cent higher than a year ago, so many stores are offering bargains in this line.

Fresh vegetables include sweet corn, snap beans, beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, cucumbers, squash, eggplant, cauliflower, green and yellow onions, peppers, radishes and tomatoes.

Kennedy Urges Public Back His Tax Cut Plan

The tax proposal that Republicans have put forth would provide that the tax cut, which Kennedy wants to start Jan. 1, would not take effect unless he submitted spending budgets not greater than $97 billion for the present fiscal year, which started July 1, and $98 billion for next year.

This would mean cuts of about $1 billion from this year's spending and perhaps as much as $3 billion to $4 billion from next year's which has not yet been estimated in detail.

Denouncing "credit card government," Miller, a New York congressman, told the networks in his telegrams asking equal time that millions of Americans in both parties disagree with what he called the "formula of living it up today through huge spending and charging the bills to our children and reducing federal revenues."

Without spelling it out, Kennedy lit into the earlier Republican proposal—and tried also to counter an expected slowdown in the Senate that might delay the bill until next year.

"Very few are openly opposed to cutting taxes," he said. "But there are those who, for one reason or another, hope to delay this bill, or to attach ruinous amendments, or to water down its effect."

"It must not be diluted by amendments or conditions. It must not be sent back to the House Ways and Means Committee. It must not be put off until next year."

"This nation needs a tax cut now—not a tax cut 'if'—not a tax cut 'when'—not a tax cut in the future or a tax cut for the few." Some Democrats were quick to say the President's effort had improved their chances in the crucial votes next week.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., a member of the Ways and Means Committee which wrote the bill, said: "I definitely think the speech has helped us defeat the Republican motion. I think the vote will be fairly close, but I think we'll win."

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, who as Democratic leader has the main responsibility for getting out the vote, said he thinks "the President has made a very strong case."

In the Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that what he called Kennedy's excellent address would help.

Mansfield pledged continued efforts to have the bill passed this year.

But Republicans professed to find no reassurance in what Kennedy had to say about holding down spending—either in his speech or in an earlier letter endorsing a congressional declaration that passage of the bill would be a commitment against spending merely for the sake of economic stimulation.

Own Voice Fascinates Deaf Boy

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Harold Wittles is fascinated by the sound of his own voice.

Harold, who will be 5 Monday, is a new member of a special class for deaf children at the Bartonville Elementary School in a Peoria suburb.

A photographer snapped his picture while he listened — his eyes wide, his small mouth open and all the powers of his self-expression blended into one big, round, silent "oh."

His teachers say Harold has been deaf most of his life, but he can hear with amplification. He wears a hearing aid constantly and uses earphones in the special class.

Miss Arlene Hrubecy, the supervisor, said today he is active and friendly and loves to imitate sounds.

Harold has speech therapy for three years at the Bradley University speech and hearing clinic. Now he has started to name colors and has begun to count.

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Service Director George Zunic lost an appeal Wednesday from a decision by Common Pleas Court Judge Leroy F. Kelly that City Council has a right to designate who will get engineering contracts for city jobs.

Zunic had appealed to the 9th District Court of Appeals on grounds that selection of professional services was an administrative function, not legislative. The Lorain Council had ordered Zunic to award contracts for water and sewer improvements to Burgess and Niple of Columbus and Jones, Henry & Williamson of Toledo.

Brazil Moves Closer to Economic Chaos

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Luis Prestes Pinheiro, an accountant, stopped at a fish market to buy some shrimp.

The price was 800 cruzeiros a kilogram—2.2 pounds. He found he had left his wallet at home and went back to get some money.

When he returned the price on shrimp had gone up to 1,000 cruzeiros a kilo.

To Pinheiro and millions of other Brazilians inflation is a night marsh spiral of increasing prices which make it more and more difficult to make ends meet on outdistanced salaries.

Living costs shot up 30.8 per cent in the first half of the year after rising 52.7 per cent in 1962 one of Brazil's worst inflation years. They are still going.

Heaping woe on the economic picture was a report from the semi-official Getulio Vargas Foundation that economic growth this year would be only 2.4 per cent while the population would increase 3.1 per cent. Population increasing faster than the national production spells trouble.

Brazil's budget deficit is expected to be from 600 billion to a trillion cruzeiros.

The cruzeiro, Brazil's monetary unit, smashed the 1,000 cruzeiros to the dollar barrier for the first time this month.

Brazil has a $25.5-million debt coming due in the United States next month and about $176 million in commercial bills coming up before the end of the year.

Except for a few preliminary measures, the ambitious three-year plan to slow up inflation and stabilize the economy never got off the ground. Finance Minister Carlos Carvalho Pinto insists, however, that he still is working rigorously within the general framework of the plan in an effort to make some order in Brazil's fuzzy financial-economic household.

Carvalho Pinto is confident the government can increase its revenue through tax reforms and other measures he has instituted.

How well Brazil fills up its foreign debt holes and withstands snowballing inflationary pressure could be decisive for the nation's economic future.

As one foreign observer put it:

What Makes Red Leaf Red?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's beautiful autumn colors soon will be attracting many thousands to the wooded areas around the state—all of which led Division of Wildlife fieldmen to explain today what makes the red leaf red.

Scattered splashes of color are already showing up as individual trees start the change early. Many reasons have been given for this change through the years, the most fanciful one attributing it to Jack Frost.

But the fall color change, say the experts, is due to a series of factors.

Here is how they explain it:

Primary cause is the shortening of days. With less sunlight and cooler weather, less chlorophyll is produced in the leaf. There is also a decrease in the production of the plant hormone, auxin, which permits the formation of a corky layer of cells known as abscission or separation cells.

This layer is nature's way of getting ready for winter. The leaf is no longer useful to the tree so it is shed by means of the separation layer. The layer also serves as a seal to prevent the scar where the leaf was attached from seeping sap, the life blood of the tree. It is the only known case in nature where a bandage is applied before the wound occurs.

When this sealing-off process occurs, the liquid is trapped in the leaf. Chlorophyll, the green coloring, is the most unstable of the coloring substances in the leaf and it immediately begins to break down. As the powerful green pigment disappears, the other more delicate pigments which have been masked by the chlorophyll now begin to show up.

They are xanthophyll (yellow) and carotene (orange or red), and the final leaf coloring depends on the genetic makeup of the plant and other factors which encourage or discourage color formation.

There is another group of pigments, anthocyanin which are dissolved in the leaf liquid and they are the brighter colors—red, blue and purple. They are usually not found in leaves during the summer and are made by the sap "aging" when trapped in the leaf. They are produced from trapped plant sugars. This coloring is versatile and accounts for all of the remaining variety of colors found in autumn leaves.

"Brazil still is some distance from true economic chaos. But the distance is getting shorter every day."

To help the Ohioans who make color tours or watch the season changes, the wildlife fieldmen say they should learn to read the bright landscape in terms of the trees which make the color.

Purple means ash, plum, dog wood, gum or some of the oaks. Tree shapes help to identify distant trees, too, in cases where a species shows several colors or several trees show the same color.

Yellow, one of the early colors, can mean tulip poplar, hickory, aspen, willow, birch, beech, elm, sassafras maple or hackberry. Orange, a mixture of yellow and red, usually indicates maples.

Dark, rich red means red maple, scarlet oak, dogwood, sassafras, gum, sumac, woodbine and sugar maple. Dark green usually denotes evergreens, especially after the color change is well under way.

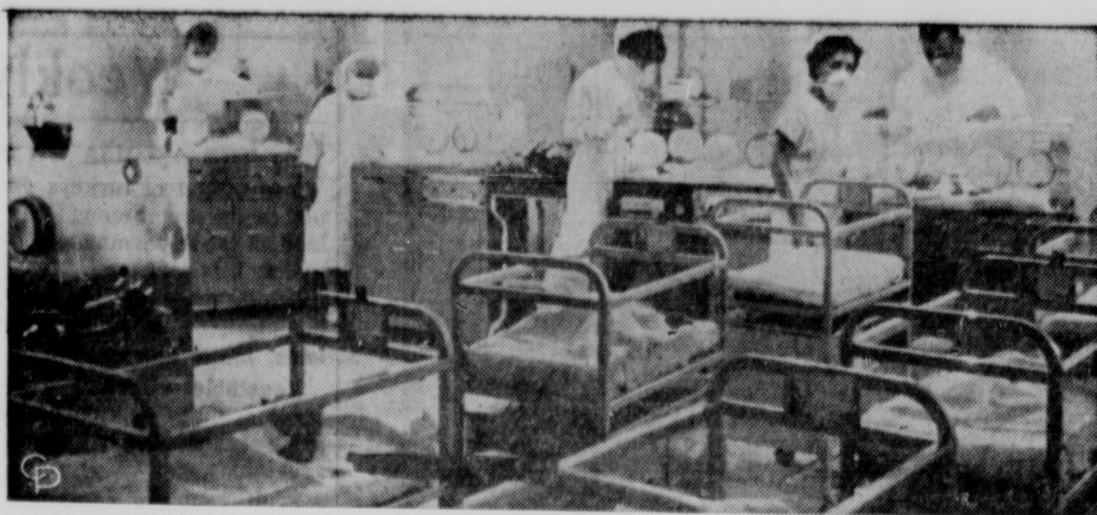

Tan or brown, depending on the earliness or lateness of the season, may mean beech, elm, sycamore, oak or hickory. There are many variations of these colors. In the hill country where oaks are common, the oak ridges show up as masses of rose, rust and purple, especially late in the season.

What weather creates the most favorable conditions for a colorful fall?

According to the experts, coloration is best when bright sunny days and cool nights are abundant. When there is an early frost or the fall is wet and cloudy, browns and yellows are dominant and the brilliant colors are largely absent.

Actually, an early frost, long thought to produce color, kills the leaves and prevents the formation of the separation cells which are basic to the chemistry of fall leaf coloration.

Congress is considering legislation that would place about 50 million acres — already under federal jurisdiction — in a far-flung wilderness system.

Nurses are busy over the five "isolettes" (one against post, left) sheltering the quints.

"GETTING ALONG FINE" is the word from Dr. Berbos on the new Fischer quintuplets (four girls, one boy) in Aberdeen, S.D. And "We're working on names for the four Marys," is the word from Andrew Fischer, the father. "We are going to use Mary for either the first or middle name of all the girls." Fischer has been a grocery clerk for the last 18 years. The family lives in a big house near Aberdeen.

Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer seems to look weary in hospital bed.

Dr. James Berbos, who delivered quints, looks happy.

U.S. Naturalized Citizens Warned of Homeland Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — To naturalized Americans thinking of paying a visit to their old homelands, the State Department gives this urgent advice:

"Check up beforehand, lest you get caught in a draft."

A military draft, that is.

The problem came up recently in the case of Samuel Cohen, 27, a Chicago Educator. He went to Israel this past summer to study briefly—but he may have to stay another 2½ years as a soldier.

Cohen was born in Israel but became a naturalized American after he came to this country 12 years ago. The trouble is, the Israelis consider him still a citizen of their country. They are holding him for military service.

U.S. diplomats are working to release him, with dubious prospects of success.

The case illustrates the tangled international situation with regard to citizenship. What nationality you are may depend on where you are.

The United States for example, does not recognize dual citizenship. Once an alien takes the U.S. citizenship oath, he is considered an American—period.

But Israel holds that an Israeli remains an Israeli until he formally renounces citizenship and this renunciation is accepted by the interior minister of Israel.

Other countries have similar laws, but U.S. officials say the Israelis seem to be "stickier than most" in enforcing them.

The United States has agreements with a number of countries, notably NATO nations, ironing out some citizenship problems. Several countries exempt men from conscription if they served in the U.S. armed forces in World War II.

In general, though, the State Department advises that naturalized citizens planning trips to their native lands should check with consulates to see what they may be getting into.

There's another warning. If a naturalized citizen stays three years in the country of his origin, he may risk losing American citizenship. However, he may safely stay aboard as long as eight years if he hops from country to country.

TRIAL OCT. 15—Gareth Martinis, 23, son of a Bronx Criminal Court judge, enters court in New York to face vehicular homicide charges. With him is his attorney, Maurice Mandelbaum. Martinis was the driver of a car involved in an accident fatal to five persons, and a public furor was created when a panel of judges, associates of his father, cleared him of drunk and reckless driving charges. Trial date is Oct. 15.

Fronting on Atlantic City's five-mile-long boardwalk are 35 hot dog stands, 25 restaurants, 10 popcorn stalls, 50 novelty shops, 15 amusement parlors, four shooting galleries, five miniature golf courses, 33 clothing stores, two furriers, two stockbrokers and two phrenologists.

Brazil has a $25.5-million debt coming due in the United States next month and about $176 million in commercial bills coming up before the end of the year.

Except for a few preliminary measures, the ambitious three-year plan to slow up inflation and stabilize the economy never got off the ground. Finance Minister Carlos Carvalho Pinto insists, however, that he still is working rigorously within the general framework of the plan in an effort to make some order in Brazil's fuzzy financial-economic household.

Carvalho Pinto is confident the government can increase its revenue through tax reforms and other measures he has instituted.

How well Brazil fills up its foreign debt holes and withstands snowballing inflationary pressure could be decisive for the nation's economic future.

As one foreign observer put it:

What Makes Red Leaf Red?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's beautiful autumn colors soon will be attracting many thousands to the wooded areas around the state—all of which led Division of Wildlife fieldmen to explain today what makes the red leaf red.

Scattered splashes of color are already showing up as individual trees start the change early.

Many reasons have been given for this change through the years, the most fanciful one attributing it to Jack Frost.

But the fall color change, say the experts, is due to a series of factors.

Here is how they explain it: Primary cause is the shortening of days. With less sunlight and cooler weather, less chlorophyll is produced in the leaf. There is also a decrease in the production of the plant hormone, auxin, which permits the formation of a corky layer of cells known as abscission or separation cells.

This layer is nature's way of getting ready for winter. The leaf is no longer useful to the tree so it is shed by means of the separation layer. The layer also serves as a seal to prevent the scar where the leaf was attached from seeping sap, the life blood of the tree. It is the only known case in nature where a bandage is applied before the wound occurs.

When this sealing-off process occurs, the liquid is trapped in the leaf. Chlorophyll, the green coloring, is the most unstable of the coloring substances in the leaf and it immediately begins to break down. As the powerful green pigment disappears, the other more delicate pigments which have been masked by the chlorophyll now begin to show up.

They are xanthophyll (yellow) and carotene (orange or red), and the final leaf coloring depends on the genetic makeup of the plant and other factors which encourage or discourage color formation.

There is another group of pigments, anthocyanin which are dissolved in the leaf liquid and they are the brighter colors—red, blue and purple. They are usually not found in leaves during the summer and are made by the sap "aging" when trapped in the leaf. They are produced from trapped plant sugars. This coloring is versatile and accounts for all of the remaining variety of colors found in autumn leaves.

"Brazil still is some distance from true economic chaos. But the distance is getting shorter every day."

To help the Ohioans who make color tours or watch the season changes, the wildlife fieldmen say they should learn to read the bright landscape in terms of the trees which make the color.

Purple means ash, plum, dog wood, gum or some of the oaks. Tree shapes help to identify distant trees, too, in cases where a species shows several colors or several trees show the same color.

Yellow, one of the early colors, can mean tulip poplar, hickory, aspen, willow, birch, beech, elm, sassafras maple or hackberry. Orange, a mixture of yellow and red, usually indicates maples.

Dark, rich red means red maple, scarlet oak, dogwood, sassafras, gum, sumac, woodbine and sugar maple. Dark green usually denotes evergreens, especially after the color change is well under way.

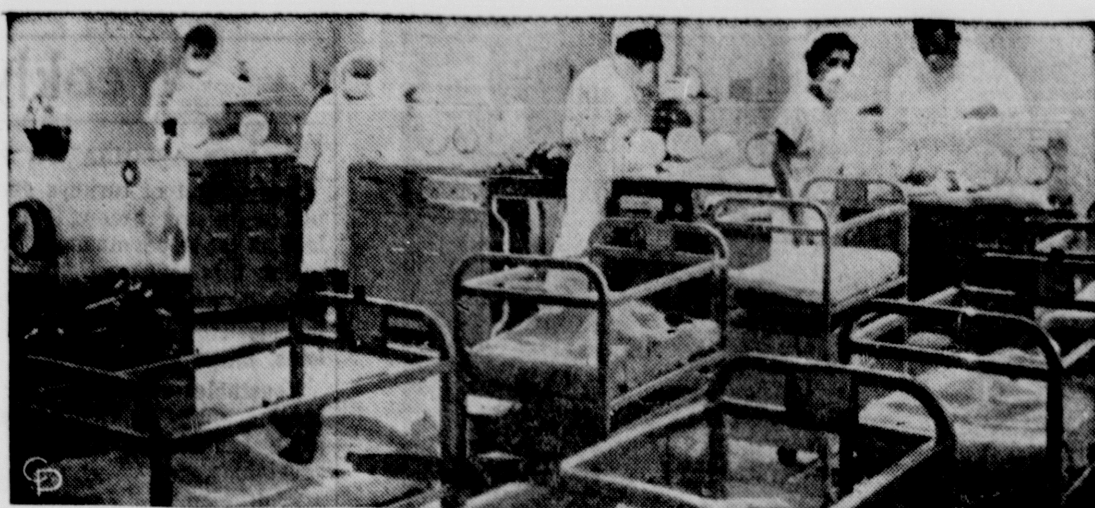

Tan or brown, depending on the earliness or lateness of the season, may mean beech, elm, sycamore, oak or hickory. There are many variations of these colors. In the hill country where oaks are common, the oak ridges show up as masses of rose, rust and purple, especially late in the season.

What weather creates the most favorable conditions for a colorful fall?

According to the experts, coloration is best when bright sunny days and cool nights are abundant. When there is an early frost or the fall is wet and cloudy, browns and yellows are dominant and the brilliant colors are largely absent.

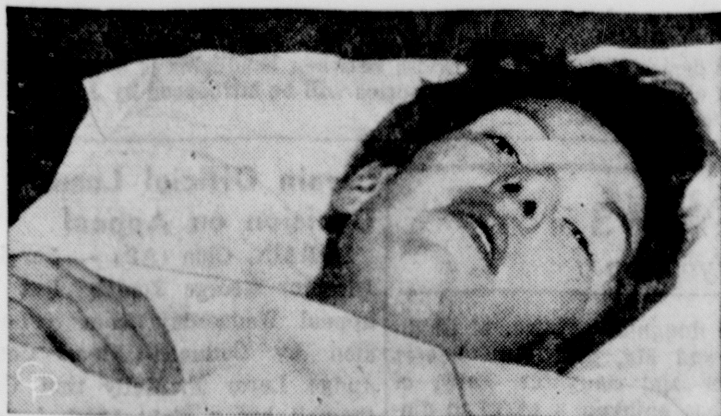

Actually, an early frost, long thought to produce color, kills the leaves and prevents the formation of the separation cells which are basic to the chemistry of fall leaf coloration.

Congress is considering legislation that would place about 50 million acres—already under federal jurisdiction—in a far-flung wilderness system.

Nurses are busy over the five "isolettes" (one against post, left) sheltering the quints.

"GETTING ALONG FINE" is the word from Dr. Berbos on the new Fischer quintuplets (four girls, one boy) in Aberdeen, S.D. And "We're working on names for the four Marys," is the word from Andrew Fischer, the father. "We are going to use Mary for either the first or middle name of all the girls." Fischer has been a grocery clerk for the last 18 years. The family lives in a big house near Aberdeen.

Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer seems to look weary in hospital bed.

U.S. Naturalized Citizens Warned of Homeland Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—To naturalized Americans thinking of paying a visit to their old homelands, the State Department gives this urgent advice:

"Check up beforehand, lest you get caught in a draft."

A military draft, that is. The problem came up recently in the case of Samuel Cohen, 27, a Chicago Educator. He went to Israel this past summer to study briefly—but he may have to stay another 2½ years as a soldier.

Cohen was born in Israel but became a naturalized American after he came to this country 12 years ago. The trouble is, the Israelis consider him still a citizen of their country. They are holding him for military service.

U.S. diplomats are working to release him, with dubious prospects of success.

The case illustrates the tangled international situation with regard to citizenship. What nationality you are may depend on where you are.

The United States for example, does not recognize dual citizenship. Once an alien takes the U.S. citizenship oath, he is considered an American—period.

But Israel holds that an Israeli remains an Israeli until he formally renounces citizenship and this renunciation is accepted by the interior minister of Israel.

Other countries have similar laws, but U.S. officials say the Israelis seem to be "stickier than most" in enforcing them.

The United States has agreements with a number of countries, notably NATO nations, ironing out some citizenship problems. Several countries exempt men from conscription if they served in the U.S. armed forces in World War II.

In general, though, the State Department advises that naturalized citizens planning trips to their native lands should check with consulates to see what they may be getting into.

There's another warning. If a naturalized citizen stays three years in the country of his origin, he may risk losing American citizenship. However, he may safely stay aboard as long as eight years if he hops from country to country.

TRIAL OCT. 15—Gareth Martinis, 23, son of a Bronx Criminal Court judge, enters court in New York to face vehicular homicide charges. With him is his attorney, Maurice Mandelbaum. Martinis was the driver of a car involved in an accident fatal to five persons, and a public furor was created when a panel of judges, associates of his father, cleared him of drunk and reckless driving charges. Trial date is Oct. 15.

Mrs. Winner Converts Barren Backyard into Flower Garden

SUCCESSFUL FLOWER GROWER — Mrs. Charles Winner picks petunias from one of her many flowerbeds. The Winner garden is relatively new, but Mrs. Winner has such a green thumb she can grow flowers just about anywhere.

Betting odds were against Mrs. Charles Winner when she moved to 120 Watt St. and started to garden. Mrs. Winner who had formerly lived on Trimmer Road was an experienced flower grower. ## Don't Harvest Gourds until They're Ripe

Somebody was asking about curing gourds the other day. We have instructions from an expert, Mrs. John Mast, Route 3. (Ringgold Pike). The Masts grow gourds and use them in winter arrangements.

Mrs. Mast says the secret is not to harvest a gourd until it is ripe.

How does one know when the gourd is ready?

According to this expert it's easy. Don't pull gourds if they are soft. If you can squeeze them or if you scar them with your thumbnail they are still considered green. Leave them alone for a week or two. Wait until they are hard.

Be sure to pull your gourds with a stem. Mrs. Mast feels they are easier to use and their artistic effect is greater if an inch and a half of stem is left on each gourd.

SOMETIMES gourds harvest themselves by dropping off the vines. If a gourd drops off by itself Mrs. Mast says you may rest assured it's ripe.

On occasion Mrs. Mast waxes her gourds but the same effect is attained by shining them with a scrubbing brush. Mrs. Mast herself is against shellacking gourds. It gives them an artificial look although some folks set store by this method.

According to Mrs. Mast they will keep whether or not you wax or shellack them.

The Masts who always raise gourds for their roadside market do not have as many as usual this year. It's the cold summer Mrs. Mast believes.

Three-quarters of the 700,000 persons in Basutoland live crowded on the boulder-strewn, deeply eroded lowlands to raise meager crops of corn, wheat and vegetables. A major conservation program has been underway since 1963.

Masts Produce Bumper Crop Of Muskmelons

It is always good news to learn that some farmer is harvesting a bumper crop. But when the farmer is Wilbur Mast and the bumper crop is Golden Delight muskmelons the whole county can celebrate.

Young Mast who farms with his father, John Mast, on Route 188 a few miles east of Circleville planted two and a half acres in melons this year. He is amazed at his own harvest. Considering the dry spells the melons endured it's a truly remarkable crop. They were heavily fertilized. This may account for the abundant harvest.

Mast said that melons are difficult to raise. They take special skill and lots of hard work. When young Mast was asked about pests he said there were always plenty of bugs that delight in melon vines. He has equipment that sprays 30 feet. He sprays regularly.

Mast has been growing melons for about seven years. Each year he increases his acreage a little. He settled on Golden Delight melons because he has found over a period of years that this variety consistently produces firm, flavorful, sweet melons.

LAST Saturday Mast was hauling melons on his hay ladder wagons to the roadside market there at the John Mast home. The women folks generally operate the stand. By women folks we mean, his mother, Mrs. John Mast, his wife and his sister Mrs. Miller Dunkel.

People come back year after year at melon time. Actually the Masts have no trouble retailing their produce. Their stand is a popular one. Mast's mother, who does most of the selling said that last week somebody came for melons long after the family had gone to bed. She didn't care about being disturbed. She's out to sell melons.

Since the Mast melon crop is such a big one Wilbur Mast's wife and his sister have set up a stand on Route 56 near Laurelville on Sundays. They have good luck selling too. In a very few hours last Sunday they had retailed a truck load of Golden Delights.

One customer from near Tilton bought a bushel basket of melons. He was a return customer who had sampled the Mast melons the Sunday before.

Wide Selection Available for Indoor Garden

At least one big seed company is thinking about flowers for the indoor gardener. You may order winter-blooming tuberous begonias if you want them. These tubers have been resting all summer so that they are in good condition. And if you start them in pots right away they will be in bloom by Christmas.

A wide selection of types is offered including the rose form camellia type ruffled camellia type, rose-form picotee and even the hanging basket type.

The same firm says that its fancy leafed caladiums if started by the end of October will be a rainbow of color by Christmas.

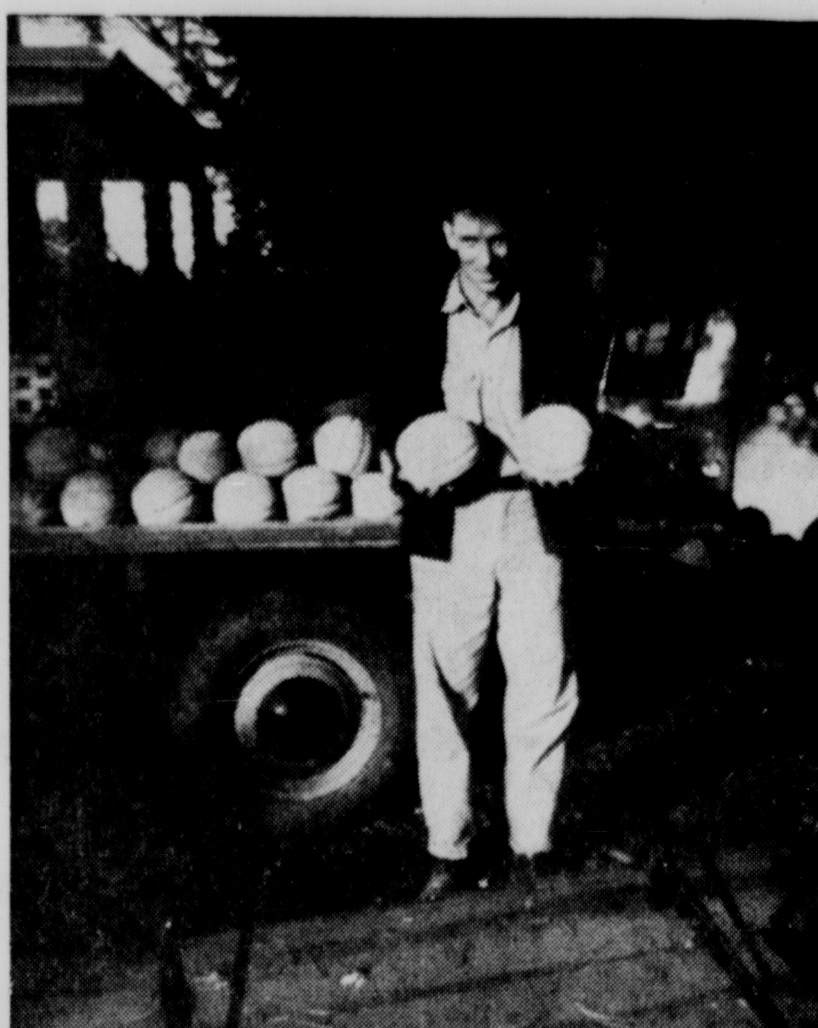

Narcissi, paper whites and the yellow variety Soleil D'or may be planted now in a bowl of pebbles for winter bloom.

And best of all this same firm offered gloxinia bulbs that will bloom in winter. If bulbs are started before the end of September it will bloom by Christmas.

Gloxinias will take some extra pampering. Start the bulbs in Spagnum moss as early as possible now. Place the pots in a south window in a room where the temperature is maintained at 70 to 75 degrees.

When the plants are growing well provide extra light. (Either a fluorescent light or a 60 watt bulb two feet away from the plant will do). The plants must have sunlight plus electric light totaling 14 to 16 hours a day.

This day-length keys the plant for blooming.

BUMPER CROP OF MELONS — Many a customer is rejoicing that Wilbur Mast raised a big crop of Golden Delight muskmelons this year. Mast, who farms with his father John Mast on the Ringgold Pike, is pictured here with melons. He has found that Golden Delight and Burpee's Hybrids are the best melons for this locality. He has been raising melons for seven years. The Masts maintain a roadside stand and sell produce in season. Right now it's melons and Spanish onions.

Bittersweet Stand Opening Sure Sign Autumn Is Near

BITTERSWEET MARKET — Each fall Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodman hunt the county over for bittersweet which they tie in different sized bunches and sell at their little Sunday stand in front of the Salter Creek Schoolhouse. This project has been in operation about eight years. Though it's work, the Goodmans thoroughly enjoy themselves hunting the orange berries for city-folks who pass.

Fall is just around the corner. One way to make sure of this fact is to travel east on Route 56 and see if the bittersweet stand operated each autumn by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodman is at its usual place in front of the Salter Creek Schoolhouse.

As of last Sunday the Goodmans were in business. They sell different sized bunches of bittersweet. They will keep the stand until after Pumpkin Show. In fact their two best days are the Sunday before and the Sunday after Pumpkin Show.

The Goodmans have had this project for about eight years now. When bittersweet season rolls around they start their hunt for these beautiful orange berries. They search the fences along little traveled roads and find plenty of it.

Incidentally Goodman says that this is a great bittersweet year and the vines are fruiting heavily. 1962 was a poor year.

RAY GOODMAN incidentally is a bus driver and resides at 217 Watt St. Circleville.

According to the Goodmans, farmers do not object to their cutting bittersweet. In fact many farmers like the idea so much that they refuse to spray or destroy the vines.

The Goodmans have sold bittersweet to many a customer over the years. One year they made a sale

Don't forget the dahlia show at the Ross County Fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday. This is an annual event for the Scioto Valley Dahlia Society.

The dahlia show will be open to the public from noon to 7 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

Harry O'Brien says that this is one of the most significant dahlia exhibits in the United States.

Luncheon may be purchased at noon Saturday. Proceeds go to the society. There will be sandwiches, salads and desserts.

We had not been past the Pickaway County Fairgrounds since the fair until last Saturday. The flowers in front of the coliseum are blooming with magnificence. These flowers were planted by the Circleville Garden Club as a civic project.

Nothing is sadder looking ordinarily than a deserted fairgrounds.

Mrs. Veta Susi of Ringgold made planters for her patio out of chimney tile. The planters of course are quite large. I believe she said they were painted to match the house.

Mrs. Susi says she has something called a pregnant plant. It's well-named because it multiplies at a great rate.

Mrs. Ned Harden, newly elected president of the Pickaway County Garden Club whispered that she was not going to start raising dahlias. This was at the flower show school in Worthington sponsored by Garden Club of Ohio. The speaker, Frank Curto, was telling how to grow exhibition dahlias.

The garden editor later asked Mr. Curto if he thought it was worthwhile to raise dahlias just to look pretty in a garden. He does. And the way his face lighted up I gathered he thought it was better to raise them for this purpose than to raise them for exhibition bloom.

Circleville's new crop of judges to-be includes Mrs. Ted Huston, Mrs. John Eshelman, Mrs. Schubert Measamer, Mrs. Charles Thompson and Mrs. Kenny Hannan.

Mrs. Huston, Mrs. Eshelman, Mrs. Measamer and Mrs. Thompson are now student judges. Mrs. Hannan will be one when she finishes this course at the flower show school.

New Winged Space Craft Passes Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The first American space payload with wings rocketed over a 9,000-mile-per-hour ballistic course Wednesday in a flight designed to check techniques for future maneuverable manned space craft.

The sleek, stub-winged payload, pushed skyward by a single stage Thor rocket, soared to an altitude of about 35 miles and then zipped back into the atmosphere to a splashdown in the Atlantic Ocean about 1,000 miles east of Cape Canaveral.

The Air Force reported that radio signals indicated the craft had flown its intended 20-minute course.

The launching was the first of six scheduled in the Air Force's project Aslet, which stands for aerothermodynamic-elastic structural systems environmental tests.

Purpose of the Aslet flights is to verify structural soundness of the spacecraft and to determine how well various materials withstand atmospheric re-entry heat up to 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The $34 million program will provide data for developing manned spacecraft which could return through the atmosphere from orbit, maneuver over thousands of square miles to select an appropriate landing spot, then touch down on a jet field like an airplane.

Mrs. Winner Converts Barren Backyard into Flower Garden

SUCCESSFUL FLOWER GROWER — Mrs. Charles Winner picks petunias from one of her many flowerbeds. The Winner garden is relatively new, but Mrs. Winner has such a green thumb she can grow flowers just about anywhere.

By ELIZABETH JONES

Betting odds were against Mrs. Charles Winner when she moved to 120 Watt St. and started to garden. Mrs. Winner who had formerly lived on Trimmer Road was an experienced flower grower. Neighbors on Watt Street, however, told her she'd have a hard time raising anything in the barren backyard of her new home.

But close friends maintained that if it could be done she'd grow flowers. Mrs. Winner proved it could be done. She has made the old backyard at 120 Watt Street produce fine flowers. What's more she has harvested a pretty good strawberry crop and her tomatoes are now in their prime.

Mrs. Winner has flowers along the brick path of the backyard, along the fence, in front of the garage, in the corner by the old summer kitchen—in fact Mrs. Winner has flowers everywhere. She has marigolds, zinnias, balsam, cornflowers, phlox, celosia, ageratum, chrysanthemums and roses.

Her strawberry bed is a built-up pyramid with the strawberries on three levels. Here she has a ladyfinger plant which is tall and graceful. Beneath the plant is a pink flamingo and the effect is slightly Japanese. Mrs. Winner, who is the mother of five, the grandmother of 10 and a great-grandmother eight times over, put in a lot of hard work in that garden. She averages a full hour a day.

Her husband thinks this is ridiculous and fusses at her. She says she has no intentions of slowing down. In fact she is training Charles Winner to watch the "cookin'" while she gardens.

"It's awfully easy to burn things," Mrs. Winner confesses, when you're working in the garden. "One of the things Mrs. Winner does in the garden is to grow plants from seeds. Her friends think she has fantastic luck with seeds to bring her hard-to-germinate seeds to plant for them."

One such test was a packet of Canterbury bells. Every last seed came up.

Mrs. Winner has a cousin who lives on Elm Street in Ashville. The cousin's name is Annie Bush and these two women have always swapped plants. In fact the primroses in the Winner garden came from Ashville.

MRS. WINNER who keeps close watch on her plants is battling with the slugs that are chewing the primroses. She has set out poison bait but the slugs seem to prefer the primrose foliage. "It'll kill 'em," says Mrs. Winner of the poison, "if they'll just eat it."

A planting of shrubs has been started along the boundary line. There are a small hydrangea, a snowball bush and one dark purple butterfly lilac.

A stately elm provides shade in the afternoon for the Winner garden. Under this elm is a brick planter full of blooming flowers. This planter is where Mrs. Winner tries her hand at tuberous begonias.

The planter in front of the house is spilling over with vines and bright flowers, mostly petunias and geraniums. One very interesting plant with a pleasing sheen to its delicate foliage is known as ice-plant. At least that is how a neighbor, Mrs. Shelby Teegardin, has identified it.

...
THE PLANT stems from one root and has cascaded magnificently over the whole planter. It has vined at least ten feet. It may be used as a houseplant and roots easily in water, Mrs. Winner says.

To the west of the house in front is a colorful bed in which balsam, geraniums and chrysanthemums are blooming. The front planting is unaffected by the dry spell because Mrs. Winner gives the planter a bucket of water at night and another in the morning. The plants never get entirely dry.

Mrs. Winner's enthusiasm is catching. She talked about next summer and the plans she has for the garden. It all sounded so beautiful we almost decided to wait until 1964 to do the article.

We asked Mrs. Winner if she would rather we'd wait. She said confidently, "It's going to be much prettier next year." And we are betting it will be. But it's a remarkable garden right now considering it was a barren backyard just a short time ago.

Masts Produce Bumper Crop Of Muskmelons

It is always good news to learn that some farmer is harvesting a bumper crop. But when the farmer is Wilbur Mast and the bumper crop is Golden Delight muskmelons the whole county can celebrate.

Young Mast who farms with his father, John Mast, on Route 188 a few miles east of Circleville planted two and a half acres in melons this year. He is amazed at his own harvest. Considering the dry spells the melons endured it's a truly remarkable crop. They were heavily fertilized. This may account for the abundant harvest.

Mast said that melons are difficult to raise. They take special skill and lots of hard work. When young Mast was asked about pests he said there were always plenty of bugs that delight in melon vines. He has equipment that sprays 30 feet. He sprays regularly.

Mast has been growing melons for about seven years. Each year he increases his acreage a little. He settled on Golden Delight melons because he has found over a period of years that this variety consistently produces firm, flavorful, sweet melons.

LAST Saturday Mast was hauling melons on his hay ladder wagons to the roadside market there at the John Mast home. The women folks generally operate the stand. By women folks we mean, his mother, Mrs. John Mast, his wife and his sister Mrs. Miller Dunkel.

People come back year after year at melon time. Actually the Masts have no trouble retailing their produce. Their stand is a popular one. Mast's mother, who does most of the selling said that last week somebody came for melons long after the family had gone to bed. She didn't care about being disturbed. She's out to sell melons.

Since the Mast melon crop is such a big one Wilbur Mast's wife and his sister have set up a stand on Route 56 near Laurelville on Sundays. They have good luck selling too. In a very few hours last Sunday they had retailed a truck load of Golden Delights.

One customer from near Tilton bought a bushel basket of melons. He was a return customer who had sampled the Mast melons the Sunday before.

Wide Selection Available for Indoor Garden

At least one big seed company is thinking about flowers for the indoor gardener. You may order winter-blooming tuberous begonias if you want them. These tubers have been resting all summer so that they are in good condition. And if you start them in pots right away they will be in bloom by Christmas.

A wide selection of types is offered including the rose form camellia type, rose-form picotee and even the hanging basket type.

The same firm says that its fancy leafed caladiums if started by the end of October will be a rainbow of color by Christmas.

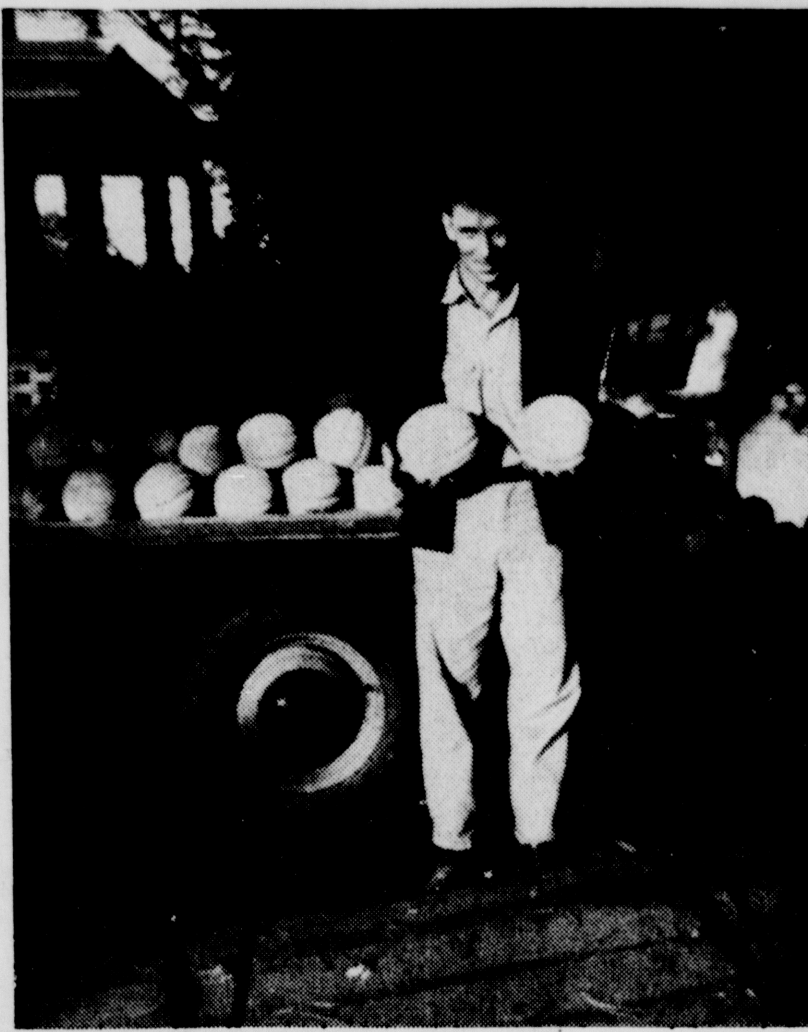

Narcissi, paper whites and the yellow variety Soleil D'or may be planted now in a bowl of pebbles for winter bloom.

And best of all this same firm offered gloxinia bulbs that will bloom in winter. If bulbs are started before the end of September it will bloom by Christmas.

Gloxinias will take some extra pampering. Start the bulbs in Spagnum moss as early as possible now. Place the pots in a south window in a room where the temperature is maintained at 70 to 75 degrees.

When the plants are growing well provide extra light. (Either a fluorescent light or a 60 watt bulb two feet away from the plant will do.) The plants must have sunlight plus electric light totaling 14 to 16 hours a day.

This day-length keys the plant for blooming.

BUMPER CROP OF MELONS — Many a customer is rejoicing that Wilbur Mast raised a big crop of Golden Delight muskmelons this year. Mast, who farms with his father John Mast on the Ringgold Pike, is pictured here with melons. He has found that Golden Delight and Burpee's Hybrids are the best melons for this locality. He has been raising melons for seven years. The Masts maintain a roadside stand and sell produce in season. Right now it's melons and Spanish onions.

Bittersweet Stand Opening Sure Sign Autumn Is Near

BITTERSWEET MARKET — Each fall Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodman hunt the county over for bittersweet which they tie in different sized bunches and sell at their little Sunday stand in front of the Salt Creek Schoolhouse. This project has been in operation about eight years. Though it's work, the Goodmans thoroughly enjoy themselves hunting the orange berries for city-folks who pass.

Fall is just around the corner. One way to make sure of this fact is to travel east on Route 56 and see if the bittersweet stand operated each autumn by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodman is at its usual place in front of the Salt Creek Schoolhouse.

As of last Sunday the Goodmans were in business. They sell different sized bunches of bittersweet. They will keep the stand until after Pumpkin Show. In fact their two best days are the Sunday before and the Sunday after Pumpkin Show.

The Goodmans have had this project for about eight years now. When bittersweet season rolls around they start their hunt for these beautiful orange berries. They search the fences along little traveled roads and find plenty of it.

Incidentally Goodman says that this is a great bittersweet year and the vines are fruiting heavily. 1962 was a poor year.

...
RAY GOODMAN incidentally is a bus driver and resides at 217 Watt St. Circleville.

According to the Goodmans, farmers do not object to their cutting bittersweet. In fact many farmers like the idea so much that they refuse to spray or destroy the vines.

The Goodmans have sold bittersweet to many a customer over the years. One year they made a sale to an unmarried couple. The next year the young people returned to purchase more bittersweet. They had been married in the meantime. The third year the couple bought bittersweet they had twins to show the Goodmans.

Ohio GI Is Awarded Medal for Heroism

SEOUL (AP)—Sgt. L.C. Rudolph P. Smith of Massillon, Ohio, has been awarded the U.S. Army Commendation Medal for saving a Korean from possible electrocution at the risk of his own life.

Smith disengaged the Korean electrician from a short-circuited switch box at a mess hall recently. By throwing the force of his body against the Korean and seizing him by the waist, Smith knocked the man to the floor and freed him from the paralyzing electric current.

Don't forget the dahlia show at the Ross County Fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday. This is an annual event for the Scioto Valley Dahlia Society.

The dahlia show will be open to the public from noon to 7 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

Harry O'Brien says that this is one of the most significant dahlia exhibits in the United States.

Luncheon may be purchased at noon Saturday. Proceeds go to the society. There will be sandwiches, salads and desserts.

We had not been past the Pickaway County Fairgrounds since the fair until last Saturday. The flowers in front of the coliseum are blooming with magnificence. These flowers were planted by the Circleville Garden Club as a civic project.

Nothing is sadder looking ordinarily than a deserted fairgrounds.

Got cotton-picking hands? Then stay away from the William Smith place at 220 Barnes Ave. Smith has waist-high cotton in his garden. He is also raising peanuts.

Mrs. Veta Susi of Ringgold made planters for her patio out of chimney tile. The planters of course are quite large. I believe she said they were painted to match the house.

Mrs. Susi says she has something called a pregnant plant. It's well-named because it multiplies at a great rate.

Mrs. Ned Harden, newly elected president of the Pickaway County Garden Club whispered that she was not going to start raising dahlias. This was at the flower show school in Worthington sponsored by Garden Club of Ohio. The speaker, Frank Curto, was telling how to grow exhibition dahlias.

The garden editor later asked Mr. Curto if he thought it was worthwhile to raise dahlias just to look pretty in a garden. He does. And the way his face lighted up I gathered he thought it was better to raise them for this purpose than to raise them for exhibition bloom.

Circleville's new crop of judges to be includes Mrs. Ted Huston. Mrs. John Eshelman, Mrs. Schubert Measamer, Mrs. Charles Thompson and Mrs. Kenny Hannan.

Mrs. Huston, Mrs. Eshelman, Mrs. Measamer and Mrs. Thompson are now student judges. Mrs. Hannan will be one when she finishes this course at the flower show school.

Others attending the flower show school Monday were Mrs. Ray Carroll, Mrs. Karl Seyfarth, Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart and the garden editor.

The Wenrich Stuckey place on Route 56 has a truly outstanding planting of annual flowers including asters, marigolds, zinnias and several other things. It has been exceedingly dry this month and how those flowers have weathered the drought is more than we can understand.

The Logan Elm Garden Club held a flower show and tea last week at the home of Mrs. Raymond Moats. It was both a horticultural event and a social event. The arrangement division was outstanding. Best of all there were lots of guests present to view the show.

One thing that will forever remain a mystery to me is how arrangers can turn up at a flower show dressed for a social event. It can be done I assure you. Mrs. Turney Pontius arrived at the Logan Elm flower show with a good many exhibits. She just stayed for the tea. Many other exhibitors did also.

It takes considerable planning and management to accomplish this feat. Often Mrs. Pontius makes and places the arrangements in the car for transportation the evening before.

Mrs. Zelda Schulte instructor at the flower show school says that more and more pre-registration is required for flower shows. I did not argue although I wanted very much to do so. Pre-registration takes the fun out of exhibiting.

The last time I went to flower show school I got into a fairly heated discussion about artificial flowers with the flower show school chairman, Ruby Bircher. She's "agin 'em."

Mrs. Kenny Hannan who has just returned from a trip with her husband to Hawaii found the flowers there beautiful and exotic. The anthuriums come in different sizes and colors. She left an order for anthuriums and some of these days they will arrive. Anthuriums are said to last for several weeks in water.

The Hannans stopped over in Las Vegas and there they found the florist shops spilling over with artificial flowers. It's so hot that cut flowers last only a few hours.

Mrs. Russ Spangler, Ringgold very close relative of Pickaway County's sheriff, has stumps in her barnyard filled with bright

New Winged Space Craft Passes Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The first American space payload with wings rocketed over a 9,000-mile-per-hour ballistic course Wednesday in a flight designed to check techniques for future maneuverable manned space craft.

The sleek, stub-winged payload, pushed skyward by a single stage Thor rocket, soared to an altitude of about 35 miles and then zipped back into the atmosphere to a splashdown in the Atlantic Ocean about 1,000 miles east of Cape Canaveral.

The Air Force reported that radio signals indicated the craft had flown its intended 20-minute course.

The launching was the first of six scheduled in the Air Force's project Asset, which stands for aerothermodynamic-elastic structural systems environmental tests.

Purpose of the Asset flights is to verify structural soundness of the spacecraft and to determine how well various materials withstand atmospheric re-entry heat up to 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The $34 million program will provide data for developing manned spacecraft which could return through the atmosphere from orbit, maneuver over thousands of square miles to select an appropriate landing spot, then touch down on a jet field like an airplane.

President Truman and his family lived in Blair House from 1949 to 1952 while the interior of the White House was being rebuilt.

flowers, red and white petunias and geraniums according to a Ringgold resident. And it's really a pretty sight.

The sheriff himself has lovely porch boxes and plantings of annuals to the east of the jail.

Mrs. George Roth, honorary member of the Pickaway County Garden Club is planning to pot some plants for the Pumpkin Show sale at the flower exhibit. Mrs. Roth lives in the Watt Street apartments.

Miss Florence Bitzer, who lives in the Watt Street apartments also said she missed the country, but she had fun with her small greenhouse raising plants for country gardens. Her eggplants were fine. She gives her plants to people who garden.

Mrs. Schubert Measamer, Knollwood Village, has a night blooming cereus. Last week when we talked she felt it was going to be blooming anytime.

Mrs. Noble Barr, 160 Town Street, said that her night blooming cereus was going to have two blossoms. I talked with her Wednesday evening and she figured the flowers would open about the next night. Last summer the Barr plant had a good number of blossoms.

Don't Harvest Gourds until They're Ripe

Somebody was asking about curing gourds the other day. We have instructions from an expert, Mrs. John Mast, Route 3. (Ringgold Pike). The Masts grow gourds and use them in winter arrangements.

Mrs. Mast says the secret is not to harvest a gourd until it is ripe.

How does one know when the gourd is ready?

According to this expert it's easy. Don't pull gourds if they are soft. If you can squeeze them or if you scar them with your thumbnail they are still considered green. Leave them alone for a week or two. Wait until they are hard.

Be sure to pull your gourds with a stem. Mrs. Mast feels they are easier to use and their artistic effect is greater if an inch and a half of stem is left on each gourd.

SOMETIMES gourds harvest themselves by dropping off the vines. If a gourd drops off by itself Mrs. Mast says you may rest assured its ripe.

On occasion Mrs. Mast waxes her gourds but the same effect is attained by shining them with a scrubbing brush. Mrs. Mast herself is against shellacking gourds. It gives them an artificial look although some folks set store by this method.

According to Mrs. Mast they will keep whether or not you wax or shellack them.

The Masts who always raise gourds for their roadside market do not have as many as usual this year. It's the cold summer Mrs. Mast believes.

Three-quarters of the 700,000 persons in Basutoland live crowded on the boulder-strewn, deeply eroded lowlands to raise meager crops of corn, wheat and vegetables. A major conservation program has been underway since 1963.

By ED WALLACE
State Representative

A three-member Ohio Building Authority, authorized to construct and operate self-financed "Golden-age Villages" for non-psychotic aged, will come into being Sept. 27.

A new law, enacted by the 105th Ohio General Assembly, creates the non-salaried authority as a public corporation to buy, construct, equip and operate facilities for persons released from a state mental hospital after Sept. 27 who — is eligible for aid for aged or disabled, or social security.

Are determined not to need care or treatment provided in the hospital;

Are determined to be unable to provide complete care for themselves or obtain and hold employment sufficient to provide the costs of living.

The law will allow the authority to use state-owned land not producing an income, or not needed by a state department.

The authority may issue revenue bonds, not a debt of the state, to finance the projects. They will be paid off from payments by the persons living in the golden-age villages.

Another new law, effective Sept. 27, Representative Wallace said, will put all minors under the strict "probationary-license" law for drivers.

It raises the upper age limit on these licenses to include minors between 18 and 21. The old "junior probationary-license" law included only minors of 16 to 18.

The new law requires the motor-vehicles registrar to revoke, for one year, a probationary license of a minor who is convicted of three moving traffic violations in a two-year period.

The old law provided revocation of licenses of 16 to 18-year-old minors under similar circumstances but the 18 to 21-year-old drivers came under the less strict point-system law.

Other new laws becoming effective Tuesday include those which will:

Limit the liability of land owners to sightseers and hunters.

Transfer the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Correction at London to the supervision of the Attorney General.

Set up a state annulment statute.

Allow boards of education to spend funds for consultant services related to business administration.

Allow county commissioners to buy road and maintenance materials for township trustees, up to $1,000.

Prohibit pollution of streams from "pig parlors."

Permit county commissioners to create a county road district in unincorporated areas.

Increase from one to five years the term for which county commissioners may lease unneeded county real estate.

Make confidential reports probation officers prepare for courts.

Authorize creation of a township police district in unincorporated areas.

Authorize appointment of seven-member boards of trustees by municipal councils and involved counties for university-branch districts as an alternative to a district administrator.

Change boundary lines of watershed district from township lines to property, section or half section or patent lines.

Views on TV-Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — "Channing," ABC's new Wednesday night dramatic series may sound like the name of a Western but is a fictional university around which the stories are to be built.

Viewers who tuned in Wednesday night expecting to watch freshmen stuffing phone booths or the quarterback making a last-minute touchdown had a surprise.

Most of the premiere show took place in the death row and visiting room of a state prison. What little college atmosphere shown was strictly coincidental. But despite the iron bars and the hyperthyroid acting of guest star John Cassavetes playing a convicted murder, the opening show was slow-moving, talky and over loaded with fuzzy philosophy.

A young professor of English—the role assumed for the run of the show by Jason Evers—received a manuscript written in prison by the killer, is vastly impressed and then proceeds to become interested in the man and his fate.

The professor got almost hysterical because the killer of an old lady during a holdup was going to the gas chamber. The show, however, was not exactly a preachment against capital punishment. In fact, its hard to say exactly what point it was making. At any rate, "Channing" was not very interesting to watch.

The new "Patty Duke Show," also on ABC, may not win that able young actress any new performing awards but as a comedy about a modern teen-ager it may amuse teen-agers—and maybe even teen-agers' parents.

NBC's "Temple Houston" will have its premiere tonight, 7:30-8:30 Eastern Daylight Time. It is a Western with a lawyer hero. At 9 ABC has the debut of its new "Jimmy Dean Show," a variety hour. It will be followed immediately by an hour special in which Sid Caesar and Edie Adams will co-star. Thereafter each will star in his own half-hour variety show on alternate weeks.

Attorney General To Study State Examiner Pay Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It will be up to the state attorney general's office, says State Auditor Roger W. Tracy, to resolve a situation in which officials of a state board appear to have received more pay than records indicate they earned.

The agency in question is the State Board of Examiners of Architects.

An examiner from Tracy's staff reported that 10 officials and former officials of the Architect Examiners Board had received more than $13,000 in per diem pay and overtime for time not properly accounted for. The period covered was from Aug. 9, 1959, through April 16, 1963.

Tracy did not make an accusation of purposeful dishonesty. He blamed what he considered inadequate board minutes.

"Because of the very nature of the board's activities," Tracy said Wednesday night "there is little doubt but that the various members actually rendered the days of service claimed. The difficulty hinges upon the fact that the neglect in maintaining the records made it impossible to substantiate the claims."

The examiner cited as "typical of the laxity in the maintenance of records," that as of the conclusion of the audit in May 1963, the minutes had yet to be written for two board meetings in both 1961 and 1962.

Board minutes that were recorded, Tracy's office said, showed that members got their per diem allowances even when occasionally absent from board meetings.

"Expense accounts indicate trips to Columbus by two or three out of town members in 1961, on April 19 and 20, May 15 and 16, and July 13, but the minute book shows no board meetings on those dates," said the report.

When the board members and officials were told of the audit results, Tracy said, they replied with detailed explanations of services performed. Ralph C. Kempton, the board's executive secretary, laid the major share of the blame for the problem upon a combination of inadequate appropriations and insufficient staff personnel to handle a constantly increasing workload.

The examiner criticized a $1,161 expense allowance paid Kempton, apparently over and above expenses legally his, and took exception to certain overtime pay drawn by board clerk Hazel Hayes.

The examiner said official re-

ords showed 262 days of service by board personnel while total reimbursements covered 898 days.

He broke down a total of $9,540 in per diem and overtime pay for which supporting records have not been found:

Harold H. Munger, Toledo, board president, $2,085; George S. Voinovich, Cleveland, vice president, $1,170; George F. Schatz, Cincinnati, board member $1,890; Arthur F. Siddells, Warren, secretary, $600; Fred E. Freytag, Sidney, assistant secretary, $120, and former board members Frederick J. Hobbs Jr., Columbus $1,755, Charles E. Firestone, Canton, $1,200 and R. Franklin Outcalt, Cleveland, $720.

8 New Dormitory Units Are Planned at Oberlin

BERLIN, Ohio (AP)—A New York architectural firm is planning eight new small dormitory units for Oberlin College, Robert K. Carr, Oberlin president said today.

Sites for the units have not yet been selected, but Moore and Hutchins has been asked to design five units for 200 women and three units for 120 men. Three of the women's units will be foreign language houses—French, German and Spanish.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

An almost stationary high pressure area over the Eastern states brought Ohio fair, cool weather.

Temperatures at dawn today ranged from 47 at Zanesville and 49 at Columbus to 60 at Mansfield.

Today will be fair with afternoon temperatures in the 80s.

A weak cold front moving slowly southward through Michigan will bring increasing cloudiness to the Northern Ohio counties tonight and a chance of showers or thundershowers to most of the state Friday.

Temperatures will be warmer tonight. Readings Friday again will be mostly in the 80s.

Brotherhood To See CHS Football Films

The showing of Circleville High School football films will highlight today's meeting of the Lutheran Church Brotherhood.

Legislative News

By ED WALLACE
State Representative

A three-member Ohio Building Authority, authorized to construct and operate self-financed "Golden-age Villages" for non-psychotic aged, will come into being Sept. 27.

A new law, enacted by the 105th Ohio General Assembly, creates the non-salaried authority as a public corporation to buy, construct, equip and operate facilities for persons released from a state mental hospital after Sept. 27 who are eligible for aid for aged or disabled, or social security.

Are determined not to need care or treatment provided in the hospital.

Are determined to be unable to provide complete care for themselves or obtain and hold employment sufficient to provide the costs of living.

The law will allow the authority to use state-owned land not producing an income, or not needed by a state department.

The authority may issue revenue bonds, not a debt of the state, to finance the projects. They will be paid off from payments by the persons living in the golden-age villages.

Another new law, effective Sept. 27, Representative Wallace said, will put all minors under the strict "probationary-license" law for drivers.

It raises the upper age limit on these licenses to include minors between 18 and 21. The old "junior probationary-license" law included only minors of 16 to 18.

The new law requires the motor-vehicles registrar to revoke, for one year, a probationary license of a minor who is convicted of three moving traffic violations in a two-year period.

The old law provided revocation of licenses of 16 to 18-year-old minors under similar circumstances but the 18 to 21-year-old drivers came under the less strict point-system law.

Other new laws becoming effective Tuesday include those which will:

Limit the liability of land owners to sightseers and hunters.

Transfer the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Correction at London to the supervision of the Attorney General.

Set up a state annulment statute.

Allow boards of education to spend funds for consultant services related to business administration.

Allow county commissioners to buy road and maintenance materials for township trustees, up to $1,000.

Prohibit pollution of streams from "pig parlors".

Permit county commissioners to create a county road district in unincorporated areas.

Increase from one to five years the term for which county commissioners may lease unneeded county real estate.

Make confidential reports probation officers prepare for courts.

Authorize creation of a township police district in unincorporated areas.

Authorize appointment of seven-member boards of trustees by municipal councils and involved counties for university-branch districts as an alternative to a district administrator.

Change boundary lines of watershed district from township lines to property, section or half section lines.

Views on TV-Radio

NEW YORK (AP)—"Channing," ABC's new Wednesday night dramatic series may sound like the name of a Western but is a fictional university around which the stories are to be built.

Viewers who tuned in Wednesday night expecting to watch freshmen stuffing phone booths or the quarterback making a last-minute touchdown had a surprise.

Most of the premiere show took place in the death row and visiting room of a state prison. What little college atmosphere shown was strictly coincidental. But despite the iron bars and the hyperthyroid acting of guest star John Cassavetes playing a convicted murder, the opening show was slow-moving, talky and over loaded with fuzzy philosophy.

A young professor of English—the role assumed for the run of the show by Jason Evers—received a manuscript written in prison by the killer, is vastly impressed and then proceeds to become interested in the man and his fate.

The professor got almost hysterical because the killer of an old lady during a holdup was going to the gas chamber. The show, however, was not exactly a preachment against capital punishment. In fact, it was hard to say exactly what point it was making. At any rate, "Channing" was not very interesting to watch.

The new "Patty Duke Show," also on ABC, may not win that able young actress any new performing awards but as a comedy about a modern teen-ager it may amuse teen-agers—and maybe even teen-agers' parents.

NBC's "Temple Houston" will have its premiere tonight, 7:30-8:30 Eastern Daylight Time. It is a Western with a lawyer hero. At 9 ABC has the debut of its new "Jimmy Dean Show," a variety hour. It will be followed immediately by an hour special in which Sid Caesar and Edie Adams will co-star. Thereafter each will star in his own half-hour variety show on alternate weeks.

Lions Club Has Dinner Meeting

The Circleville Lions Club held its regular bi-monthly dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the War-dell Party Home.

A special program was on the agenda as Larry Seipel, of the Millersport club, and Rollie Nauman, of Lancaster, showed color slides of international conventions they attended. The program was under the direction of Clarence Radcliffe, international counselor.

A business meeting followed the program conducted by Harry Styers, president. A discussion was held concerning the Pumpkin Show. The unit will sponsor a float and operate a fish and oyster stand.

The next meeting will be Oct. 1, and all members are urged to attend. Plans are to be completed for the Pumpkin Show activities.

Attorney General To Study State Examiner Pay Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It will be up to the state attorney general's office, says State Auditor Roger W. Tracy, to resolve a situation in which officials of a state board appear to have received more pay than records indicate they earned.

The agency in question is the State Board of Examiners of Architects.

An examiner from Tracy's staff reported that 10 officials and former officials of the Architect Examiners Board had received more than $13,000 in per diem pay and overtime for time not properly accounted for. The period covered was from Aug. 9, 1959, through April 16, 1963.

Tracy did not make an accusation of purposeful dishonesty. He blamed what he considered inadequate board minutes.

"Because of the very nature of the board's activities," Tracy said Wednesday night "there is little doubt but that the various members actually rendered the days of service claimed. The difficulty hinges upon the fact that the neglect in maintaining the records made it impossible to substantiate the claims."

The examiner cited as "typical of the laxity in the maintenance of records," that as of the conclusion of the audit in May 1963, the minutes had yet to be written for two board meetings in both 1961 and 1962.

Board minutes that were recorded, Tracy's office said, showed that members got their per diem allowances even when occasionally absent from board meetings.

"Expense accounts indicate trips to Columbus by two or three out of town members in 1961, on April 19 and 20, May 15 and 16, and July 13, but the minute book shows no board meetings on those dates," said the report.

When the board members and officials were told of the audit results, Tracy said, they replied with detailed explanations of services performed. Ralph C. Kempton, the board's executive secretary, laid the major share of the blame for the problem upon a combination of inadequate appropriations and insufficient staff personnel to handle a constantly increasing workload.

The examiner criticized a $1,161 expense allowance paid Kempton, apparently over and above expenses legally his, and took exception to certain overtime pay drawn by board clerk Hazel Hayes.

The examiner said official re-

ords showed 262 days of service by board personnel while total reimbursements covered 898 days.

He broke down a total of $9,540 in per diem and overtime pay for which supporting records have not been found:

Harold H. Munger, Toledo, board president, $2,085; George S. Voinovich, Cleveland, vice president, $1,170; George F. Schatz, Cincinnati, board member $1,890; Arthur F. Siddells, Warren, secretary, $600; Fred E. Freytag, Sidney, assistant secretary, $120, and former board members Frederick J. Hobbs Jr., Columbus $1,755, Charles E. Firestone, Canton, $1,200 and R. Franklin Outcalt, Cleveland, $720.

Anti-Bingo Case Dropped In High Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Dayton man is being allowed, at his own request, to withdraw a mandamus action he brought in the Ohio Supreme Court in an attempt to ban bingo playing for money.

Emanuel Nadlin, Dayton, filed his suit Aug. 13 against Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, Montgomery County Prosecutor Paul R. Young and Dayton's city law director Herbert S. Beane.

Ten days later, Montgomery County Common Pleas Court enjoined Dayton's city manager from allowing bingo if played for charitable purposes. That suit also was brought by Nadlin, who is an attorney.

Judge Robert L. McBride said such games constitute legalized gambling and are contrary to city and state law. McBride ruled that City Manager Herbert Starick has no right to permit the games.

In the suit which the Supreme Court is allowing Nadlin to withdraw, he asked the high court to require the respondents to bring an action to enjoin "every common nuisance within Ohio where the play of bingo for money is conducted in violation of law."

Ohio law provides penalties only for a promoter who conducts bingo for "his own profit." That law was enacted 20 years ago, and charity bingo has flourished in some communities since.

Last Thursday Nadlin, announced he was dropping all his court actions, since Judge McBride had made the decision ruling the city manager's bingo regulations were illegal. The court granted Nadlin $1,500 in fees and court costs.

New Probe of U.S. Crime Due Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has announced that the Senate Investigations subcommittee will begin Tuesday its massive new probe of "syndicated crime" and the narcotics traffic. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will be the leadoff witness.

McClellan still kept under wraps the date on which another star witness, the talkative mobster Joseph Valachi, is to take the witness stand to describe inner workings of a secret criminal organization known to its members as Cosa Nostra (Our Thing).

McClellan said the plans call for an original three weeks of hearings. They will deal with crime in New York, Boston, Chicago, Detroit and other areas which he did not specify. He said that the testimony would determine whether later hearings should be held.

Valachi, a New York gangster now under life sentence for murder, has been described as anxious to testify and publicly put the finger on his former crime bosses in revenge, he says, because they have ordered him slain.

Valachi is being held in the District of Columbia jail under tight security precautions.

The Teays Valley High School Home Economics Department is offering a course of eight two-hour sessions in first aid to both men and women. Richard Saunders of the State Highway Patrol will instruct.

The first class will be 7 p. m. Sept. 24 in room 21. The sessions will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings for the next four weeks. The course is free.

For persons interested, first aid certificates will be available.

Schools in the county will not be in session Friday when teachers attend the Central Ohio Teachers' Meeting in Columbus. This will be the first holiday for students since the starting of school on Sept. 3.

Mrs. Elda Benke had as guests this past Friday in her home, Mrs. Frank Fishburn and daughters, Mrs. Florence Cass, and Mrs. Paul Dows, all of Mt. Vernon. Mrs. Cass recently returned from a European tour.

The Ashville Methodist Fellowship Class will meet 3 p. m. Sunday at the Rife Garage on W. Main St., where members will reconstruct their float for the Circleville Pumpkin Show parades.

Members and their families are asked to attend and bring sandwiches and salads. A committee will furnish the dessert. The group will eat at the church at 5:30 p. m. and return and work on the float in the evening.

Serving on the committee are Mr. and Mrs. William Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. James Link Brown, and Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman.

Anti-Bingo Case Dropped In High Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Dayton man is being allowed, at his own request, to withdraw a mandamus action he brought in the Ohio Supreme Court in an attempt to ban bingo playing for money.

Emanuel Nadlin, Dayton, filed his suit Aug. 13 against Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, Montgomery County Prosecutor Paul R. Young and Dayton's city law director Herbert S. Beane.

Ten days later, Montgomery County Common Pleas Court enjoined Dayton's city manager from allowing bingo if played for charitable purposes. That suit also was brought by Nadlin, who is an attorney.

Judge Robert L. McBride said such games constitute legalized gambling and are contrary to city and state law. McBride ruled that City Manager Herbert Starick has no right to permit the games.

In the suit which the Supreme Court is allowing Nadlin to withdraw, he asked the high court to require the respondents to bring an action to enjoin "every common nuisance within Ohio where the play of bingo for money is conducted in violation of law."

Ohio law provides penalties only for a promoter who conducts bingo for "his own profit." That law was enacted 20 years ago, and charity bingo has flourished in some communities since.

Last Thursday Nadlin, announced he was dropping all his court actions, since Judge McBride had made the decision ruling the city manager's bingo regulations were illegal. The court granted Nadlin $1,500 in fees and court costs.

New Probe of U.S. Crime Due Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., has announced that the Senate Investigations subcommittee will begin Tuesday its massive new probe of "syndicated crime" and the narcotics traffic. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will be the leadoff witness.

McClellan still kept under wraps the date on which another star witness, the talkative mobster Joseph Valachi, is to take the witness stand to describe inner workings of a secret criminal organization known to its members as Cosa Nostra (Our Thing).

McClellan said the plans call for an original three weeks of hearings. They will deal with crime in New York, Boston, Chicago, Detroit and other areas which he did not specify. He said that the testimony would determine whether later hearings should be held.

Valachi, a New York gangster now under life sentence for murder, has been described as anxious to testify and publicly put the finger on his former crime bosses in revenge, he says, because they have ordered him slain.

Valachi is being held in the District of Columbia jail under tight security precautions.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has had to feel his way toward the $11-billion tax cut he asked the people to support Wednesday night in his television and radio broadcast.

His argument can be put this way: Taxes are too high and have been for years. If they're cut, people and corporations will have more money to spend. This, by pepping up the economy, will be insurance against another recession.

Concern about a recession has been on his mind since he took office in 1961 although the word "recession" can be a delicate one with presidents.

President Eisenhower on Jan. 18, 1961—two days before he turned over the White House to Kennedy—told Congress in his economic report that there had been a "decline" in the economy. Kennedy went a lot stronger than that 11 days later. In his State of the Union Message to Congress on Jan. 29, 1961, Kennedy said: "We take office in the wake of seen-months of recession, three and a half years of slack."

He pointed back to the recession of 1958—which Eisenhower at the time had also called a recession—and said this country's recovery from that one was incomplete.

By the end of June 1961, after he had been in office six months, he reported the United States "had emerged from the recession." But fear of another one was high in his mind, as he showed later.

He referred Wednesday night, as he had before, to four recessions since the war: 1948-49; 1953-54; 1958-59; and 1960-61. He said high tax rates had helped cause the last two recessions.

In his first year Kennedy proposed various measures to bolster the economy but by 1962 he had definitely settled on a tax-cut as a program to pursue, although in the beginning he only inched up to the problem.

In his budget message in January 1962, Kennedy didn't ask for a direct tax cut but suggested Congress give him stand-by authority to cut taxes if the economy began to show sickness.

Later in the year he went further and talked of wanting Congress to cut taxes across the board for individuals and corporations in 1963, a cut applying to 1963 income. This didn't get anywhere.

But, starting out this year, he made the across-the-board tax cut his major program for 1963. It eventually became apparent, as this tardy Congress dawdled along, that even if it approved a cut it wouldn't apply to 1963 income.

Then last week he got over his first big hurdle when the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax matters, approved 17 to 8 a tax cut of $11 billion.

Fifteen Democrats and two Republicans teamed up to approve the measure over the opposition of eight Republicans. Approval by this committee was a necessary preliminary before the full House could get a chance to vote on it.

The full House tackles it next week. And Wednesday night Kennedy used some of his television time to take a swipe at foes of the bill, mostly Republicans. Republicans quickly announced they will demand equal television time to answer.

But even if the House gives Kennedy the tax cut he wants, there can't be any tax reduction unless the Senate also approves and it may be weeks before a Senate committee even begins hearings, and more weeks before there can be a full vote on the bill in the Senate, if it ever gets there.

In his economic report last January Kennedy said in the 1948-49 and 1953-54 recessions a tax cut had helped check the decline and spur recovery.

Congress cut taxes $4.7 billion in 1948, just before the full impact of the recession was felt. The upturn began in October, 1949.

In the 1953-54 recession individual, corporate and excise tax reductions cost the government, Kennedy figured, about $7.4 billion in revenue. That recession ended in August 1954.

But Kennedy said it might have ended sooner if the cuts had been made sooner. There's no recession in sight now, Kennedy takes the position a tax cut before there is a recession will help avoid it.

The main protest of his opponents is that it's poor economy to reduce government revenue, through a tax cut, when government spending is outdistancing government income.

Cincinnati Is Held In Mysterious Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police are mystified by the slaying of Ernest Seay, 33, who was shot dead by a stranger as he sat on a construction project retaining wall.

John Claggett, 50, arrested minutes after the shooting Wednesday, told police the dead man was "one of a gang out to get me." Claggett did not know the dead man's name, police said, and offered no explanation.

Lausche Gets Invitation to Cuyahoga Fete

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cuyahoga County Democratic organization, in an apparent step to achieve harmony among all elements of the party, has invited Sen. Frank J. Lausche to appear with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson at the party's annual steer roast Sunday.

Dan W. Duffy, who took over the leadership of the local Democratic organization three weeks ago, indicated he was reserving a prominent place on Sunday's program in hopes that Sen. Lausche accepts the invitation to speak.

The Ohio senator has been at odds with Ray T. Miller, former Democratic chairman here, for more than 20 years. Lausche a former Cleveland mayor and five-term governor of Ohio, was not invited and did not appear three years ago when President Ken-

Dick Nen Chalks HR First Time at Bat In Major Leagues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dick Nen was in Oklahoma City Tuesday night, in St. Louis Wednesday night and in seventh heaven today.

Nen was the unknown commodity who turned into a valuable piece of merchandise with one swing of his bat as the National League - leading Los Angeles Dodgers crushed St. Louis' pennant hopes by edging the second place Cardinals 6-5 in 13 innings.

A left-handed swinger, Nen, 23, was in Oklahoma City Tuesday playing for Spokane in the Pacific Coast League playoffs. With that ended, he was called up to the Dodgers and joined the club in St. Louis just before the finale Wednesday night of the three-game series between the contenders.

When the Dodgers got involved in a late-inning shuffle, Nen wound up playing first base. He came up in the ninth inning with the Dodgers trailing 5-4 and immediately collected his first major league hit—a home run that tied the score.

The Dodgers went on to win in the 13th with the help of a two-base throwing error by Julian Javier as relief ace Ron Perranoski got credit for the victory that dropped the Cardinals four games behind and virtually out of the running.

"Nervous?" Nen exclaimed in answer to a question as reporters gathered around in the Dodgers dressing room. "I was scared stiff. I had no idea I'd be called upon."

Nen, who has averaged only one homer every 17 games in the PCL, said he hit a fast ball, low and inside.

"I knew I hit it good, but I had no idea it was a home run until I saw the umpire give the home run sign."

"It was a strange feeling." The loss left the Cardinals with the almost impossible task of making up five games in the loss column with only seven games remaining. The Dodgers, meanwhile, will return home to close out the season with a nine-game stand.

In other NL action Wednesday, Philadelphia belted the New York Mets 5-1 in the last baseball game to be played at the Polo Grounds. Milwaukee defeated San Francisco 6-4, the Chicago Cubs edged Pittsburgh 2-1 and Houston walloned Cincinnati 8-4.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader from Boston 8-3 and 4-3. Camilo Pascual pitched a two-hitter as Minnesota crushed Detroit 10-0, Kansas City edged Washington 5-4 and Baltimore took two from the Los Angeles Angels 3-1 and 7-5, with Steve Barber becoming a 20-game winner in the opener.

The American League champion New York Yankees and Cleveland were not scheduled.

The Cardinals built a 5-1 lead on a two-run homer by Charley James in the second inning off Pete Richert and a three-run third inning capped by Curt Flood's two-run double. Cardinal starter Bob Gibson took the lead and a four-hitter into the eighth.

A two-run single by Tommy Davis and a sacrifice fly by Willie Davis brought the Dodgers to within one run, then Nen tied it in the ninth.

Perranoski, 16-3, took over in the eighth and checked the Cardinals on three hits until the Dodgers finally broke through against Lew Burdette 9-12, in the 13th on a single by Willie Davis, the throwing error by Javier, who stumbled as he fielded Dick Tracowski's grounder, and a grounder by Wills on which the speedy Davis sped home.

U.S. Amateur, Pro Golfers Closer Together on Rules

NEW YORK (AP)—Hopes of a worldwide golf code appear doomed, but U.S. amateurs and professionals are getting closer together on a uniform set of playing standards.

This was the general reaction today to the announcement by the U. S. Golf Association that it is making four amendments, effective Jan. 1, 1964, which are at variance with the rules adopted by the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews.

The general effect is this: While golf will be played differently in Britain and the United States it will look more like one game in this country.

The new rules softening the penalties on unplayable lies and by local option on out-of-bounds, are more in line with those used by the pros on the Professional Golfers Association tour.

They also should be welcomed by the lowly duffers. They cut down the costs of mistakes.

The Royal and Ancient, which presides over the sacred ground where the game supposedly was born, and the U. S. Golf Association make the rules by which most of the world plays the game. The PGA, which runs the multi-million-dollar tour which has spawned such links capitalists as Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, has been operating under still a different set of standards.

Here are the four basic changes in the USGA rules, not supported by the R & A:

1. Flagstick: A ball striking an unattended flagstick when played from the putting green or within 20 yards of the hole will be a penalty of loss of hole in match play and two strokes in stroke play. (At present, and under the R & A code, there is no penalty).

2. Unplayable Ball: The penalty to be cut from two strokes to one stroke for dropping the ball from an unplayable lie. As an alternative, a ball may be dropped within two club lengths of the point where the unplayable ball lay. The alternative of stroke and distance is retained.

3. Provisional Ball: May be played only for a ball which is lost or out-of-bounds and may not be played for a ball which is unplayable or in a water hazard. (The R & A code will allow a provisional ball for a ball lost, out of bounds or unplayable).

4. Local Rules. Local committees will be permitted to make certain provisions dealing with local conditions. On an out-of-bounds, a ball may be dropped, under penalty of one stroke, within two club-lengths of the place where the original ball last crossed the boundary line.

Tribe Attendance Hitting Low Ebb

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians—with only four more home dates—are headed for their poorest attendance at Municipal Stadium since 1945.

When the Indians wound up their home meetings with the New York Yankees Tuesday night, only 7,629 fans showed up to watch the Tribe's 3-2 triumph in 10 innings.

Cleveland's home attendance now is 554,143 for 1963, compared to 716,076 for the entire 1962 season.

In 1945, the Indians drew only 558,182 persons. This year's club should surpass that in the three-game series with the Los Angeles Angels starting Friday night. The final home game is Tuesday against Minnesota.

Marr Wins Prelim To Portland Open

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Dave Marr fired a six-under-par 35-31 66 Wednesday and won the amateur event, a curtain raiser for Thursday's $30,000 Portland Open Golf Tournament.

Tying for runnerup honors at 67 in the 18-hole round at the par 36-36-72 Columbia Edgewater Country Club course were Paul Bondeson with a 36-31 and Bob Goetz, 34-33.

Jack Nicklaus, defending Portland Open champion, was tied for seventh place with 32-37—69 with Lionel Hebert, Dave Hill and Tommy Aaron.

Babe Ruth's .393 batting average in 1923 still stands as a New York Yankee club record.

11 Pacers Set For Brown Jug

Overtrick Is Favored In Delaware Classic

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Ten of America's premier harness racing horses, and one from Canada, were set to go after the second jewel of pacting's triple crown today—the Little Brown Jug.

Ideal weather and a crowd of 35,000 were in prospect. Overtrick, 5-2 favorite on the early line, and Meadow Skipper, winner of the Cane Futurity—first of the triple—were rated the horses to watch in the classic for 3-year-olds. Canada's Country Don was rated at 3-1 along with Meadow Skipper.

The winner could be known anytime from midafternoon to near dusk. That's because the winner must prevail in two heats. If two heats produce two victors, a third heat ensues. If yet a third horse finishes in front, the three heat leaders stage a deciding raceoff. Prize melon totaled $68,294, with $13,659 set aside for the eventual Jug champion.

In one late development, it was announced that Bob Farrington of Richmond, Ohio, would drive Max Hanover, an entry coupled with Chapel Chief. Farrington, who piloted more winners than any other harnessman last year, replaced Joe Green.

Judging by the Grand Circuit goings-on at the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile oval this week, a possible record time for the Jug was possible. Three age-gait world standards for half-mile tracks were lowered here Wednesday, bringing to six the number of world records broken at the meeting since Monday.

The fastest mile heat ever paced in the Jug was 1:58.35, by both Bullet Hanover and Muncy Hanover in separate heats in 1960. Meadow Skipper did 1:58.4-5 in the Cane at Yonkers, N.Y.

The records set Wednesday:

Fastest mile ever by a 2-year-old trotter on half-mile track — Ayres, driven by Johnny Simson, 2:00 1-5. Ellipses 2:03 1/2 by Titan Hanover here in 1944. Ironically, Ayres lost the next two heats of the Ohio Standardbred Futurity and the trophy to Smart Rodney, with Billy Haughton in the sulky. Fastest combined three - heat time by a 2-year-old trotter on half-mile track — Smart Rodney, 6:05, including 2:01 4-5 and 2:03 heats that also bettered the Titan Hanover record.

Best two-heat time by a 2-year-old pacing gelding, half-mile track — Jug Time, driven by Wayne (Curly) Smart, 4:06 1-5.

Junior High Grid Program Announced At Teays Valley

The Teays Valley School District junior high school football program will get under way Thursday, it was announced by Marion Waits, Teays Valley High School coach. The three elementary schools in the district will field teams made up of eighth graders. They will play a schedule within the school system.

Ashville will play Scioto in the first game. On the following week Scioto will play Walnut and then Ashville and Walnut will compete. An all-star exhibition game will cap the program.

Waits reported there are 52 youths participating in the program.

Nineteen lettermen are on Penn State's football squad.

Liston's Trip Home Veiled In Mystery

DENVER (AP)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, back home suddenly and mysteriously from a British exhibition boxing tour, says he is "ashamed to be in America."

But he doesn't say why, any more than he will explain what prompted him to break off his successful overseas swing and hop a jet flight home.

Asked why he was ashamed to be here, the world's champion said Wednesday night: "You ought to be able to figure that out."

And when asked whether it was financial or family matters that brought him back, he retorted: "That's getting just plain nosey." Liston left British boxing circles buzzing Wednesday with his sudden departure. A boxing writer for a London newspaper said the champion had a tiff with his adviser, Jack Nilon, who denied this was so. The Midlands inspector of the British Boxing Board of Control, William Cotterill, said Liston had accused him of "sending 'two broads' up to his room" but that he convinced the champion it wasn't true.

Sonny himself said he was leaving because of the illness of his daughter, Eleanor, 12, at home in Denver. The mention of the girl was something new in itself. It had not been known that Liston was a father.

At the Liston residence in north-east Denver, the champion's wife of nine years, Geraldine said the girl is Liston's daughter—and her stepdaughter—and that the child was in good health and attended school Wednesday.

Nilon and Liston's sparring partner, Fonedo Fox, made another swirl in the conflicting rumors stirred up by the champion's abrupt flight. They said Sonny had not one, but two daughters, and that the older one, Mary, is 17.

Michigan State has won the Big Ten, ICA and NCAA cross-country championships four times in the same year.

1. Flagstick: A ball striking an unattended flagstick when played from the putting green or within 20 yards of the hole will be a penalty of loss of hole in match play and two strokes in stroke play. (At present, and under the R & A code, there is no penalty).

2. Unplayable Ball: The penalty to be cut from two strokes to one stroke for dropping the ball from an unplayable lie. As an alternative, a ball may be dropped within two club lengths of the point where the unplayable ball lay. The alternative of stroke and distance is retained.

3. Provisional Ball: May be played only for a ball which is lost or out-of-bounds and may not be played for a ball which is unplayable or in a water hazard. (The R & A code will allow a provisional ball for a ball lost, out of bounds or unplayable).

4. Local Rules. Local committees will be permitted to make certain provisions dealing with local conditions. On an out-of-bounds, a ball may be dropped, under penalty of one stroke, within two club-lengths of the place where the original ball last crossed the boundary line.

Tribe Attendance Hitting Low Ebb

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians—with only four more home dates—are headed for their poorest attendance at Municipal Stadium since 1945.

When the Indians wound up their home meetings with the New York Yankees Tuesday night, only 7,629 fans showed up to watch the Tribe's 3-2 triumph in 10 innings.

Cleveland's home attendance now is 554,143 for 1963, compared to 716,076 for the entire 1962 season.

In 1945, the Indians drew only 558,182 persons. This year's club should surpass that in the three-game series with the Los Angeles Angels starting Friday night. The final home game is Tuesday against Minnesota.

Marr Wins Prelim To Portland Open

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Dave Marr fired a six-under-par 35-31 66 Wednesday and won the pro-amateur event, a curtain raiser for Thursday's $30,000 Portland Open Golf Tournament.

Tying for runnerup honors at 67 in the 18-hole round at the par 36-36-72 Columbia Edgewater County Club course were Paul Bondeson with a 36-31 and Bob Goetz, 34-33.

Jack Nicklaus, defending Portland Open champion, was tied for seventh place with 32-37—69 with Lionel Hebert, Dave Hill and Tommy Aaron.

Babe Ruth's .393 batting average in 1923 still stands as a New York Yankee club record.

11 Pacers Set For Brown Jug

Overtrick Is Favored In Delaware Classic

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Ten of America's premier harness racing horses, and one from Canada, were set to go after the second jewel of pacting's triple crown today—the Little Brown Jug.

Ideal weather and a crowd of 35,000 were in prospect. Overtrick, 5-2 favorite on the early line, and Meadow Skipper, winner of the Cane Futurity—first of the triple—were rated the horses to watch in the classic for 3-year-olds. Canada's Country Don was rated at 3-1 along with Meadow Skipper.

The winner could be known any time from midafternoon to near dusk. That's because the winner must prevail in two heats. If two heats produce two victors, a third heat ensues. If yet a third horse finishes in front, the three heat leaders stage a deciding raceoff.

Prize melon totaled $68,294, with $13,659 set aside for the eventual Jug champion.

In one late development, it was announced that Bob Farrington of Richwood, Ohio, would drive Max Hanover, an entry coupled with Chapel Chief. Farrington, who piloted more winners than any other harnessman last year, replaced Joe Green.

Judging by the Grand Circuit goings-on at the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile oval this week, a possible record time for the Jug was possible. Three age-gait world standards for half-mile tracks were lowered here Wednesday, bringing to six the number of world records broken at the meeting since Monday.

The fastest mile heat ever paced in the Jug was 1:58.35, by both Bullet Hanover and Muncy Hanover in separate heats in 1960. Meadow Skipper did 1:58.45 in the Cane at Yonkers, N.Y.

The records set Wednesday: Fastest mile ever by a 2-year-old trotter on half-mile track — Ayres, driven by Johnny Simonson, 2:00 1-5. Elipses 2:03 1-5 by Titan Hanover here in 1944. Ironically, Ayres lost the next two heats of the Ohio Standardbred Futurity and the trophy to Smart Rodney, with Billy Haughton in the sulky.

Fastest combined three - heat time by a 2-year-old trotter on half-mile track — Smart Rodney, 6:05, including 2:01 4-5 and 2:03 heats that also bettered the Titan Hanover record.

Best two-heat time by a 2-year-old pacing gelding, half-mile track — Jug Time, driven by Wayne (Curly) Smart, 4:00 1-5.

Nineteen lettermen are on Penn State's football squad.

Liston's Trip Home Veiled In Mystery

DENVER (AP) — Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, back home suddenly and mysteriously from a British exhibition boxing tour, says he is "ashamed to be in America."

But he doesn't say why, any more than he will explain what prompted him to break off his successful overseas swing and hop a jet flight home.

Asked why he was ashamed to be here, the world's champion said Wednesday night: "You ought to be able to figure that out."

And when asked whether it was financial or family matters that brought him back, he retorted: "That's getting just plain nosey."

Liston left British boxing circles buzzing Wednesday with his sudden departure. A boxing writer for a London newspaper said the champion had a tiff with his adviser, Jack Nilon, who denied this was so. The Midlands inspector of the British Boxing Board of Control, William Cotterill, said Liston had accused him of "sending two broads" up to his room" but that he convinced the champion it wasn't true.

Sonny himself said he was leaving because of the illness of his daughter, Eleanor, 12, at home in Denver. The mention of the girl was something new in itself. It had not been known that Liston was a father.

At the Liston residence in northeast Denver, the champion's wife of nine years, Geraldine said the girl is Liston's daughter—and her stepdaughter—and that the child was in good health and attended school Wednesday.

Nilon and Liston's sparring partner, Fonedo Fox, made another swirl in the conflicting rumors stirred up by the champion's abrupt flight. They said Sonny had not one, but two daughters, and that the older one, Mary, is 17.

Michigan State has won the Big Ten, ICA and NCAA cross country championships four times in the same year.

Shave Retains Ohio Open Title

Champion Given Scare By Circleville Youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Open Golf championship, won Wednesday for the second straight time by Bob Shave Jr. of Wiloughby, probably will grow into a $10,000 fixture next year.

This year's pot of $4,000 was the top of the teaching professionals have shot for in some time—Shave picked up $650 for his three-sponsors said the loot would be more than doubled in 1964.

For the last four years professionals sharpened by the national tour have taken the Buckeye crown. Frank Stranahan of Toledo did it in 1960 and 1961, and then Shave took over with his unorthodox putter.

Shave led after every round as he carved out scores of 66, 71, 69 and 72 over Walnut Hills Country Club's 6,740-yard par 72 course. But he had to stave off a big challenge by Circleville's 20-year-old Tom Cassidy to take the title.

TOM CASSIDY

Shave led by four strokes at the end of 36 and he and Cassidy carded 69s in Wednesday's morning session. But in the stretch drive the long-hitting "Roundtown" star banged his tee shot in the 340-yard first hole and dropped a 10-foot putt for an eagle duce. He was only one stroke back at the end of five holes, but he bogied the eighth, ninth and tenth to stifle his chances.

Shave's gallery was more interested in his putting method than in his score. He uses a mallet-type putter, grasping the top with his thumb-up hand as a fulcrum. His right hand is on the club shaft, about 15 inches from the top, and he stands facing the hole with the putter swinging between his feet like a pendulum. He holed some impossible putts, too.

Cassidy received $450 to assuage his disappointment, while 20-year-old Tom Weiskopf of Bedford led the amateurs with 282 and received $200 in merchandise. Brad Anderson, 25-year-old Columbus pro, wound up with a 66 and a 286 total good for third in the professional field. Eddie Griffiths, former champion from Chagrin Falls, was next with 287—and no one else bettered or matched par for the long, dusty hot route.

Charles Stamm of Cambridge and Ock Willowit of Dayton scored 149 each for the first 36 holes to tie for the seniors' crown. They received $125 each. Bob Kepler, Ohio State's coach, and Wilbur Brandenburg of Columbus were next among the oldsters (50 and over) with 152, good for $62.50 each, while Jim Cirigliano of Lorain picked up $25 for his 164.

Logan Elm Meets Sheridan In First Grid Homecoming

The Logan Elm Braves of coach Keith Merrin will go after another shutout victory Friday when they host Sheridan High School.

Pre-game queen crowning ceremonies and a post game dance will mark the first football homecoming at Logan Elm although the lighted gridiron was in use last year.

The Braves will be aiming for their third win of the season when they meet the Class AA school from Perry County. But at the same time, the invaders will be seeking to avenge a 22-6 loss suffered last year when the Braves were the victorious visitors.

Although Merrin and his aide, Jerry Leist, were not able to personally scout Sheridan, they were able to get information from Teays Valley scouts who saw the Fairfield Union-Sheridan game last week. The Fairfield Union team won, 36-14.

AGAINST their Friday foes, the Sheridan unit used a wide open offense with both ends split and both halves flanked most of the time. Their defense will apparently be one the Braves have not faced this year. They line up in what appears to be a seven-man line.

They do a lot of passing, favoring a down-and-out pattern. Against Fairfield Union they were able to hit the short man effectively.

The Braves will be moving into the game at full strength for the first time this year.

Billy Huffman, a halfback who Merrin had been counting heavily on before the first game, injured his knee in pre-season practice. The injury apparently has healed and the back will probably see plenty of playing time tomorrow, according to Merrin.

The LE coach did say a couple of changes appeared to be in order in the starting unit after a review of films of the Union tilt.

Merrin noted that three of the next four opponents the Braves will face are Class AA high schools.

Two of the Ivy League's football captains are centers. They are Yale's George Humphrey from Chagrin Falls, Ohio and Penn's Fred Jaffin from Ambler, Pa.

Vikings Face Tough Opponent on Friday

The Teays Valley High School football team will face a tough assignment tomorrow when Fairfield Union comes to Ashville.

The newly consolidated Class AA school in Fairfield County is coached by Wade Watts who guided Canton McKinley to three mythical state titles in four years.

The Fairfield gridders have scored 72 points in two games this year, defeating Sheridan 36-14 Friday.

Teays Valley Coach Marion Watts considers the Vikings' opponents one of the three top schools on the Viking Schedule this year.

"WE KNOW they are going to be good and it's asking a lot of the boys to come back against this school after facing Circleville," Watts reported.

The Teays Valley scouting report indicates the Watts-coached gridders use a pro type offense, with both ends split and the half-backs wide.

They have a fine running half-back, an outstanding end and a good quarterback. They pass about 60 per cent of the time.

"Defensively Watts has coached a 5-3-3 formation for years and we see no reason why he should change now," the Viking coach commented in summing up the team.

Last year they lost one game and have nearly the same team back, according to the scouting report.

The Viking coaching staff has slated a shakeup in the starting alignment.

WITH THE loss of John Rush at fullback, Watts plans to move Dave Rose into that position while Bill Dore' will handle the signal calling chores.

Denver Henson, who developed a throat infection early in the year, will be ready for duty at fullback if needed.

The entire right side of the offensive line has been changed with Bob Smith at guard, Bill Younk at tackle and Mike Seymour at end.

On the left side of the line it is Bill Fortner at end, either John Ridenour or Ken Rose at tackle.

kle Mike Wilson at guard and Dick Myers at center.

The defensive backfield will be unchanged. Defensive tackle Tom Sampson cracked several ribs in practice during the first part of the week and will be replaced by Ken Rose. Dick Myers will be at the other tackle.

Viking mentor Watts reported that a viewing of the game films of the TVHS-CHS encounter verified his post game statement that the Vikings were defeated by a fine team.

The coaching staff will show the films to the public at the TV High School at 7:30 p. m. today.

Logan Elm Meets Sheridan In First Grid Homecoming

The Logan Elm Braves of coach Keith Merrin will go after another shutout victory Friday when they host Sheridan High School.

Pre-game queen crowning ceremonies and a post game dance will mark the first football homecoming at Logan Elm although the lighted gridiron was in use last year.

The Braves will be aiming for their third win of the season when they meet the Class AA school from Perry County. But at the same time, the invaders will be seeking to avenge a 22-6 loss suffered last year when the Braves were the victorious visitors.

Although Merrin and his aide, Jerry Leist, were not able to personally scout Sheridan, they were able to get information from Teays Valley scouts who saw the Fairfield Union-Sheridan game last week. The Fairfield Union team won, 36-14.

AGAINST their Friday foes, the Sheridan unit used a wide open offense with both ends split and both halfbacks flanked most of the time. Their defense will apparently be one the Braves have not faced this year. They line up in what appears to be a seven-man line.

They do a lot of passing, favoring a down-and-out pattern. Against Fairfield Union they were able to hit the short man effectively.

The Braves will be moving into the game at full strength for the first time this year.

Billy Huffman, a halfback who Merrin had been counting heavily on before the first game, injured his knee in pre-season practice. The injury apparently has healed and the back will probably see plenty of playing time tomorrow, according to Merrin.

The LE coach did say a couple of changes appeared to be in order in the starting unit after a review of films of the Unioto tilt. Merrin noted that three of the next four opponents the Braves will face are Class AA high schools.

Two of the Ivy League's football captains are centers. They are Yale's George Humphrey from Chagrin Falls, Ohio and Penn's Fred Jaffin from Ambler, Pa.

Vikings Face Tough Opponent on Friday

The Teays Valley High School football team will face a tough assignment tomorrow when Fairfield Union comes to Ashville.

The newly consolidated Class AA school in Fairfield County is coached by Wade Watts who guided Canton McKinley to three mythical state titles in four years.

The Fairfield gridders have scored 72 points in two games this year, defeating Sheridan 36-14 Friday.

Teays Valley Coach Marion Watts considers the Vikings' opponents one of the three top schools on the Viking Schedule this year.

"WE KNOW they are going to be good and it's asking a lot of the boys to come back against this school after facing Circleville," Watts reported.

The Teays Valley scouting report indicates the Watts-coached gridders use a pro type offense, with both ends split and the halfbacks wide.

They have a fine running halfback, an outstanding end and a good quarterback. They pass about 60 per cent of the time.

"Defensively Watts has coached a 5-3-3 formation for years and we see no reason why he should change now," the Viking coach commented in summing up the team.

Last year they lost one game and have nearly the same team back, according to the scouting report.

The Viking coaching staff has slated a shakeup in the starting alignment.

WITH THE loss of John Rush at fullback, Watts plans to move Dave Roese into that position while Bill Dore' will handle the signal calling chores.

Denver Henson, who developed a throat infection early in the year, will be ready for duty at fullback if needed.

The entire right side of the offensive line has been changed with Bob Smith at guard, Bill Younkun at tackle and Mike Seymour at end.

On the left side of the line it is Bill Fortner at end, either John Ridenour or Ken Roese at tackle.

Mike Wilson at guard and Dick Myers at center.

The defensive backfield will be unchanged. Defensive tackle Tom Sampson cracked several ribs in practice during the first part of the week and will be replaced by Ken Roese. Dick Myers will be at the other tackle.

Viking mentor Watts reported that a viewing of the game films of the TVHS-CHS encounter verified his post game statement that the Vikings were defeated by a fine team.

The coaching staff will show the films to the public at the TV High School at 7:30 p. m. today.

MOVE UP TO CHRYSLER '64

Engineered better...backed better than any car in its class

The '64 Chryslers are here: the luxurious New Yorker (above); sports-bred 300; and the surprisingly easy-to-own Newport.

Clean. Crisp. Handsome. Designed in the modern concept. Bold but not brassy. Engineered by men who have accounted for more "firsts" than any automobile maker. So well built the vital moving parts are warranted for 5 years or 50,000 miles. (Details below.)

The '64 Chryslers are full of news: there's an optional steering wheel you can adjust, up or down, to any one of seven different positions. Bucket seats are standard on 300 models (passenger's reclines).

These are the '64 Chryslers. They have no junior editions to compromise your investment. Go see them. Move up to Chrysler '64.

Chrysler Corporation warrants, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business, the engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings of its 1964 automobiles, provided the owner has the engine oil changed every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, the oil filter replaced every second oil change and the carburetor air filter cleaned every 6 months and replaced every 2 years, and every 6 months furnishes to such a dealer evidence of performance of the required service, and requests the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the car's then current mileage.

3HEADED FAMILY — "They were my enemies. I am a black man and they are not," is the reason given by Melvin E. Jackson (above) for cutting off the heads of his wife Evet, 23, son Miles, 4, and daughter Kim, 2, in Los Angeles. Police found him studying Black Muslim literature in his home amid a grisly scene of butchery.

Truck Crash Results in Two Injuries

Two truck drivers received minor injuries yesterday when their vehicles collided on the Crownover Mill Road near New Holland. The accident happened at noon.

Referred to a doctor for treatment were Neil Depugh, 19, Mt. Sterling, and Winfield Durst, 23, Columbus. Both trucks, heavily loaded with gravel, were extensively damaged.

Depugh was headed southwest on the Crownover Mill Road and Durst was traveling northeast. As they rounded a curve they crashed head on.

Durst was cited by the Ohio State Highway Patrol for driving left of center.

IN ANOTHER accident investigated by the local Patrol post yesterday, an auto driven by Quinton James of Coal Run, Ky. struck the back end of a tractor-cornpicker outfit driven by Marcellus Lowe of Route 1, Lockbourne.

Moderate damage was done to both the cornpicker and the auto. James was cited into Circleville Municipal court for failure to have assured clear distance ahead. He waived a court hearing and paid a fine of $15 and costs.

The accident was on Route 23 four miles north of South Bloomfield at 4:05 p. m.

Select Issues Post Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels, motors, tobaccos and selected issues advanced today as the stock market posted a moderate rise. Trading was quiet early this afternoon.

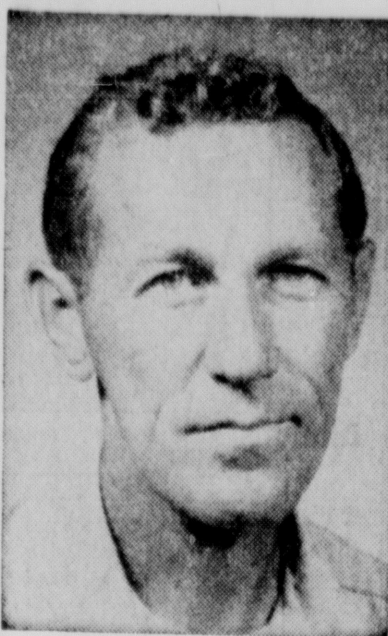

Trading dullness was ascribed to the start of the Jewish high holidays combined with normal pre-weekend caution.

Key stocks made gains of fractions to a point or so. An assortment of high-flyers rebounded 1 to 3 points from recent losses.

Airlines and aerospace issues were among losers. Oils were irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 280.2 with industrials up 1.3, rails up .2 and utilities up .4.

American Motors added a full point. Ford advanced nearly a point. Chrysler and General Motors fractions.

L. E. Horning Is Honored By Du Pont

Lloyd E. Horning, accounting superintendent at the Circleville Du Pont plant, was honored today for his many years of service with the firm.

L. E. HORNING

Reaching his 40-year milestone today, Horning was presented with a gold tie clasp inscribed with the Du Pont oval in acknowledgment of his long tenure.

The veteran Du Pont employee lives at Knollwood Village with his wife, Bobbie. They have one daughter, Mrs. Edwin S. Weber Jr., Wilmington, Dela. The three Weber grandchildren are Edwin S. III, 10; Ruth Lynn, 7; and Lee Ann, 6.

Horning's entire 40 years with Du Pont has been in various accounting capacities with the firm's film department. He attended Cornell University.

THE HONORED employee started with the company Sept. 19, 1923, in the accounting section of the Yerkes Cellophane plant in Buffalo, N. Y.

He served in various accounting sections at the Yerkes plant until 1953 when he was transferred to the Circleville post as superintendent.

Voter Registration Deadline Draws Near

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown is reminding Ohioans that only a week remains for otherwise qualified voters who need to register to complete this pre-election step.

He said Sept. 25 is the deadline, except in a few home rule communities where registration closes earlier under provisions of the community's charter. Thirty-five Ohio counties have total registration and 12 have partial registration.

3HEADED FAMILY — "They were my enemies. I am a black man and they are not," is the reason given by Melvin E. Jackson (above) for cutting off the heads of his wife Evet, 23, son Miles, 4, and daughter Kim, 2, in Los Angeles. Police found him studying Black Muslim literature in his home amid a grisly scene of butchery.

Truck Crash Results in Two Injuries

Two truck drivers received minor injuries yesterday when their vehicles collided on the Crownover Mill Road near New Holland. The accident happened at noon.

Referred to a doctor for treatment were Neil Depugh, 19, Mt. Sterling, and Winfield Durst, 23, Columbus. Both trucks, heavily loaded with gravel, were extensively damaged.

Depugh was headed southwest on the Crownover Mill Road and Durst was traveling northeast. As they rounded a curve they crashed head on.

Durst was cited by the Ohio State Highway Patrol for driving left of center.

IN ANOTHER accident investigated by the local Patrol post yesterday, an auto driven by Quinton James of Coal Run, Ky. struck the back end of a tractor-cornpicker outfit driven by Marcellas Love of Route 1, Lockbourne.

Moderate damage was done to both the cornpicker and the auto. James was cited into Circleville Municipal court for failure to have assured clear distance ahead. He waived a court hearing and paid a fine of $15 and costs.

The accident was on Route 23 four miles north of South Bloomfield at 4:05 p. m.

Select Issues Post Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels, motors, tobaccos and selected issues advanced today as the stock market posted a moderate rise. Trading was quiet early this afternoon.

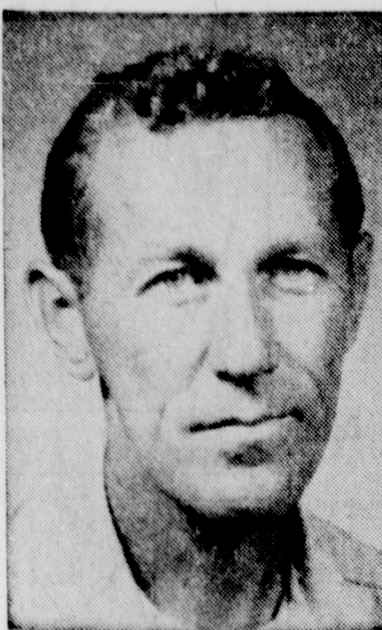

Trading dullness was ascribed to the start of the Jewish high holidays combined with normal pre-weekend caution.

Key stocks made gains of fractions to a point or so. An assortment of high-flyers rebounded 1 to 3 points from recent losses.

Airlines and aerospace issues were among losers. Oils were irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 8 at 280.2 with industrials up 1.3, rails up .2 and utilities up .4.

American Motors added a full point. Ford advanced nearly a point. Chrysler and General Motors fractions.
